

BANKS RAISE INTEREST ON SAVINGS AND LOANS

TORONTO (CP)—Chartered banks will increase both the interest paid on savings deposits and their prime lending rate within the next few days, it was reliably reported today in banking circles.

The savings rate will be increased from 2½ per cent to 3 per cent effective July 1, it is stated; and the prime rate will be increased from 5½ per cent to 6 per cent July 3. No change, however, will be made in the 5½ per cent rate applicable to loans under the Small Business Loans Act.

The prime lending rate is the lowest rate at which banks make loans on the best of security. At 6 per cent it will be as high as it can go under the terms of the Bank Act.

March of Giant Ants Eating Up Villages

CAIRO (Reuters)—The terrifying march of giant white ants continues to wreak havoc in lower Egypt, it was reported today.

At least 10 villages in a remote area of Beheira province in the lush Nile delta region must be abandoned due to the invasion of ants, it was learned.

Many of the ants almost an inch long and are of the vicious "soldier" type. About 25 villages in the area are infested with the ants. They dig huge colonies to a depth of six feet below the ground and come out at night in the millions to devastate buildings.

An agriculture ministry expert said today that in 10 of the villages infestation had reached the stage where nothing could be done but abandon them and have the people rebuild their homes elsewhere.

He said "millions and millions" of ants had established colonies under the villages and were eating all material containing cellulose—the organic structure contained in vegetable matter.

Churchill As He Left London for Holiday

'Winnie' Has Surgery After Fall in Hotel

MONTE CARLO, Monaco (Reuters)—Sir Winston Churchill fell and broke his thigh bone today and doctors carried out a "successful" operation on him.

The 87-year-old British elder statesman underwent surgery in the afternoon following a fall in his hotel room here.

Dr. Charles Chatelin, chief surgeon at Monte Carlo hospital, told reporters after doing the operation: "The operation was successful. It is possible now that Sir Winston can be sent to London tomorrow."

Churchill was taken to the hospital after he fell while getting out of bed in the luxury Hotel de Paris, where he had been staying since arriving from London Tuesday on a two-week visit.

He was visited in the hotel by Dr. Chatelin and Churchill's Monaco physician, Dr. David Roberts.

Then he was rushed to the hospital—the Princess Grace polyclinic—by ambulance and X-rayed.

An official medical bulletin said he suffered "a fracture of the neck of the femur"—the upper narrow part of his left thighbone.

In London, Lady Churchill announced Sir Winston would be flown home Friday.

NO COMPLAINT BY CITY IF AIRPORT CUT—MAYOR

Victoria is keenly disappointed at suspension of the Patricia Bay air terminal project but will bear without complaint its share of sacrifices needed to return the nation's economy to health, Mayor R. B. Wilson said today.

He said the city would not make a plea for special consideration in view of the national financial crisis, but he hoped the terminal would be "one of the first projects" carried out when conditions improve sufficiently.

Cut-Back Talks Still Occupy PM

By ALEX YOUNG
Times Ottawa Bureau
OTTAWA—Prime Minister John Diefenbaker went into another session with his cabinet today in a continuing cut-back review of spending estimates.

The pressures of the project apparently forced him to cancel a visit he had scheduled for today to Winnipeg.

He had been due to address in Winnipeg tonight the golden jubilee banquet of the Ukrainian Catholic hierarchy of Canada but at the last minute called it off. Justice Minister David Fulton was to speak in his place.

The explanation given by Diefenbaker's office was simply: "The prime minister is remaining in Ottawa on government business."

The cost-cutting is aimed at reducing the anticipated $745,000,000 deficit for the current fiscal year by $250,000,000.

FLEMING NAMED
The prime minister also announced Finance Minister Donald Fleming has been reappointed "for the normal five-year term" to represent Canada on the boards of governors of the International Monetary Fund, from which Canada has borrowed $300 million to help cope with the dollar crisis, and the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development.

The Fleming announcement was taken by some observers here to mean that the finance minister would be staying in his post, despite speculation to the contrary.

As the prime minister entered today's cabinet meeting he was asked by reporters for details of the budget-chopping.

"I'm not going to deal with individual projects," he said. "All the projects are being faken up."

Asked if the national sports council, operating on an annual $5 million budget, would be affected, he replied: "The sports council has been regularly constituted and is operating. I don't think I have anything further to add."

Britain's new Immigration Act, restricting Commonwealth immigration for the first time, was aimed at cutting the flow of migrants but has been widely criticized as being discriminatory on racial lines.

Critics have said the Act's provisions are designed to cut immigration from the West Indies, India and Pakistan. Until the Act goes into effect Sunday there is virtually free entry for Commonwealth citizens.

Many of the Indian would-be immigrants were seeking jobs in Britain or were relatives of people already there.

NDP URGES DOUGLAS TO TRY SEAT

TORONTO (CP)—The national executive of the New Democratic Party voted today that if a non-confidence vote comes up in Parliament on Prime Minister Diefenbaker's austerity program Social Credit would have to vote against the minority government.

But Mr. Thompson told a press conference he doesn't think the Social Credit party will be put in a position where it would hold the balance of power in such a vote.

He stressed that his party does not want an election this year and said also the Liberals are not ready for an election.

"We don't want an election this year because we want time to win the next election," he said. "But if we are forced to go to the people we will."

Both Mr. Thompson and deputy leader Real Caouette said they disagreed with the prime minister's measure to check the financial crisis.

"We don't want a tight-money program," said Mr. Thompson. "It is going to kill our economy."

"It is in the situation as it is Diefenbaker had no choice."

"He had to do it," Diefenbaker was dishonest. He deceived the Canadian people because he told them something wasn't true that was true. He delayed this action until after the election."

23,432 Pupils Let Loose
Local schools today disgorged 23,432 pupils for the last time in this school year.

All pupils of elementary and secondary schools in School District 61 finished their year's work at regular dismissal time this afternoon.

Those who still had exams to write were kept a little longer.

Only teachers will attend school on Friday morning, a spokesman for the school board said today.

Capture Made In Hotel Room

(Times News Services)

TEL AVIV—Convicted Soviet spy Dr. Robert A. Soblen, wanted by U.S. authorities to begin serving a life sentence, was arrested here Wednesday night and charged with illegally entering Israel.

A ministry of information communique said Soblen was arrested at 11 p.m. in his hotel room because he entered the country Tuesday on a Canadian passport in the name of his late brother, Beras Soblen.

The 62-year-old Lithuanian-born Soblen was scheduled to surrender to a federal court in New York today to start serving a life sentence for spying in the United States for Russia during wartime. He had been free on $100,000 bail.

Soblen was asleep when plainclothes police entered his room to take him into custody, United States.

The ex-psychiatrist, who suffers from lymphatic leukemia—a form of blood cancer—complained "I do not feel well" when he was arrested. He offered no resistance.

While Israel and the United States do not have an extradition agreement, Soblen faces expulsion on the charge of illegal entry.

In New York, Attorney Robert M. Morgenthau of the U.S. justice department, said "every effort" will be made to return Soblen to the United States.

Soblen flew here Tuesday night from New York by Air France via Paris. He escaped detection for nearly 24 hours.

He arrived alone at Lydd Airport, carrying a suitcase and a briefcase, and took a taxi to the small Savoy Hotel overlooking the Mediterranean.

Asked for his passport by the hotel clerk, Soblen said he had lost it. He said he remembered the passport number and gave it as "10385," then registered under the name of Beras Soblen and gave his age as 72.

Beras Soblen is reported to have committed suicide in Montreal five years ago. The local attorney Ari Ankorian, who refused the review early this week.

After checking into the hotel, Soblen went to bed and slept until noon Wednesday. He ate a light meal in the hotel dining room and then made several phone calls, including one to an unknown person in Haifa and another to local attorney Ari Ankorian.

Phone Calls Aroused Suspicion
The lack of a passport and the telephone calls aroused the suspicions of the hotel staff and police were notified.

Soblen left the hotel in shorts and shirt to wander about the city. He returned about 3:30 p.m.

A short time later he complained about the lack of air conditioning in the high 80 degrees heat and asked for another room. He also asked for an English newspaper which contained a New York dispatch on his escape. He was given both.

Soblen was asleep when police knocked on his door. He told them he had lost his passport. The room was searched and some documents found.

Soblen was convicted July 16, 1961, in a New York federal court of spying for Russia over a 20-year period.

The U.S. Court of Appeals affirmed the conviction March 13. Last Monday the U.S. Supreme Court refused to review his case. Soblen's wife said he disappeared a few hours later.

Soblen could have been sentenced to death. Federal Judge William Horland spared him the electric chair because Soblen's disease was expected to kill him by this summer.

ON RHODESIA

U.K. Rejects Proposal Before UN

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—Britain today rejected any United Nations intervention in the affairs of Southern Rhodesia and announced it would not take part in a general assembly vote on a resolution demanding constitutional changes there.

Sir Patrick Dean, summing up weeks of debate, expressed unqualified opposition to the resolution sponsored by 38 African and Asian countries and backed solidly by the Soviet bloc. Sponsors of the measure predicted beforehand they would receive at least 65 votes, more than the necessary two-thirds majority needed.

The resolution seeks to have Britain repeal the December, 1961, constitution, branded by its foes as designed to perpetuate white rule. It seeks a constitutional convention in which Negro political leaders would wield power equal to that of whites.

Dean contended the assembly had no authority to intervene in affairs of a self-governing territory, that Britain cannot force Southern Rhodesia to repeal the constitution, and that his government had "gone more than halfway to co-operate" with the United Nations in dealing with this question and with the whole range of questions affecting dependent territories for which the United Kingdom still has responsibilities.

BERTON ON THE TRAIL

Where the Paving Ends The Wilderness Begins

(Toronto columnist Pierre Berton is revisiting his old home, the Yukon. Third in a series.)

TOAD RIVER (delayed)—We have driven these past two days for 437 miles through some of the most spectacular scenery in the world and we are camped tonight in the heart of the Northern Rockies on the banks of a milk-white stream.

We have crossed the Continental Divide by way of canyon and pass, and along the dizzy lips of precipice and cliff and there is no effective way of describing it. The children, who tend to be blasé about scenery, have been hypnotized by the sight of so much naked rock and driven snow—by valleys 20 miles across, by waterfalls a mile above them, by gorges chopped through granite walls as if by giant meat cleavers and by rivers so majestic that they can never again speak of their own Humber as anything but a babbling brook.

My wife has just remarked that she was not prepared for what we have seen so far. She thought the Alaska Highway might be rather drab: "I expected grandeur—but I did not think to see so much color," she says.

Vivid With Color
By that she means the wild chautauque of the hillside foliage, the purple slabs of the mountains reflected in the mint-green lakes, the whiteness of the snow against the frost blue sky and the brilliant drifts of bluebells tinting the forest floor.

She has also been pleasantly reassured by the condition of the highway itself. It is wider and better surfaced than she expected. The first hundred miles are now paved and the next hundred as good as paved since the crushed sandstone used there packs hard as cement.

The remainder of the gravel road is rather like the concession roads in our own Vaughan Township but easier to drive because of its better condition. There is road equipment everywhere repairing and renewing the highway—replacing culverts ripped out by flash floods, laying new gravel beds torn up by frost boils, straightening bad curves and forever grading and widening.

Indians Rush To Beat U.K. Ban

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—A brisk black market trade in air fares to Britain was underway here today as hundreds of Indians clamored to leave before a new restrictive British immigration bill becomes law on Sunday.

Plane tickets to Britain were sold "under the counter" by travel agents at double the official price and some would-be immigrants kept a round-the-clock vigil at travel agencies, airline companies and at airports hoping to pick up a passage.

Britain's new Immigration Act, restricting Commonwealth immigration for the first time, was aimed at cutting the flow of migrants but has been widely criticized as being discriminatory on racial lines.

Critics have said the Act's provisions are designed to cut immigration from the West Indies, India and Pakistan. Until the Act goes into effect Sunday there is virtually free entry for Commonwealth citizens.

Centennial Flashback

THIS DAY IN VICTORIA - 1862

JUNE 28

The complaint of Mr. Jacob Francis, the colored man who was refused a drink in the Bank Exchange Saloon (see June 26), was brought forward in police court, and adjourned to a later date, the magistrate stressing that the court desired to find out whether parties who insulted British subjects in the manner of which Francis complains should in future be allowed licenses.

The House of Assembly met and discussed a letter from the chief engineer and the secretary of the fire department, asking for a new engine for the Tiger Company, and a further appropriation of £600 for the purchase of hose.

The house also received, from the surveyor-general, an estimate of the cost of a road, six feet wide, from Victoria to Kowmox District. Figure was set at £5,000. No action was taken.

LONDON — Fathers should give their wives one day a week off from "eternally answering questions, changing diapers, preparing meals, washing up, clearing away toys and taking the children shopping," a British doctor said today.

Dr. Richard Glover, a father of three himself, proposed in the magazine family doctor that fathers take over the children for one day each week and give "the greatest treat a mother could have." This suggestion, he added, "will almost inevitably lead to my being drummed out of the father's club."

"Once father has spent a full and happy day cooking, cleaning washing up and diaper changing, he will probably either regard his wife with wonder and admiration or be taken away in a plain van."

HONG KONG — An unlicensed taxi offered Lam Chung-mun, a businessman, a lift and Lam called police. Not that Lam was blowing the whistle on illegal taxis. The man was driving Lam's car, stolen only the day before. Police hooked the driver for car theft.

CONCORD, N.C. — Two tombstones for sale, in excellent condition, $50 each.

The classified ad, which appeared in the Concord Tribune, was a typographical error.

Mrs. D. J. Faggart said she intended selling two tombstones. She said she got a lot of replies anyway and could have sold the tombstones if she had them.

WASHINGTON — An Ohio girl's symbolic painting of a wounded American eagle today aroused consternation among the 1,300 delegates to the annual convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

The artist is Sharon Whittaker, 17, who won first prize in a contest entered by more than 12,000 high school students.

The theme was "What America means to me."

In the painting the bleeding eagle is being viewed by three sad-eyed poorly clad girls from behind barbed wire. Sharon used lots of somber color and a black border around the picture.

Many delegates said they did not understand what the scene meant. Secondly, they didn't like the idea of the American eagle lying bleeding on the ground.

Other paintings on display depicted such scenes as city streets, baseball games and New England churches with lots of bright colors.

Sharon said:

"The eagle is the symbol of America and those people typify all Americans. The eagle is half-dead because of the worry and strife going on in the country because of things like crime and poverty and religious decay and the Communist influx."

"The people are wondering if they can pull the eagle out of its misery and make the country what it was meant to be — a free nation; and whether the eagle can make the rest of the world free so that it can enjoy what we enjoy."

ARCATA, Calif. — Officer Jim Clemenson suspected a hoax when a caller phoned police early today and said a sea lion was waddling up the main street of this northern California coastal community.

He walked three blocks from the police station and stood face-to-face with a 200-pound sea lion.

After an hour-long tussle, citizens, deputy sheriffs and police roped the frisky animal. They then made arrangements to turn it over to a nearby tourist site featuring Pacific Ocean inhabitants.

SEATTLE — A squabble over nudity at the world's fair is getting a full-dress airing.

WASHINGTON Governor Albert Rosellini has criticized a proposal by the performing arts director at the fair, Harold Shaw, for more undressed females on "Show Street," the fair's adult-attraction area.

In reply to a letter from a Seattle Lutheran clergyman, Rosellini said Wednesday he was shocked at Shaw's statements. Shaw also proposed father-and-son nights at two of the shows.

Shaw replied that he was "equally shocked at the governor."

"I think that the people of this country being ashamed of the human body is ridiculous," he said.

The arts director said more nudity at the fair would "be a boost to President Kennedy's physical fitness plan."

"Americans don't have beautiful bodies," Shaw declared. "The best way to stimulate beautiful bodies is to see them," he said.

Vancouver Newsmen, G. McCallum, Dies

VANCOUVER (CP) — Gordon McCallum, 53, day city editor of The Vancouver Province, died in hospital Wednesday night.

He had been in hospital since suffering a heart attack 10 days ago.

Mr. McCallum began his newspaper career in Edmonton, moving to Vancouver in 1945.

He lived for a number of years in Victoria, serving as legislative correspondent for the province in the press gallery.

U.K. Invites Ikeda

MASS VACCINE PROGRAM PLANNED BY U.S. GOV'T

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House of Representatives has passed and sent to the Senate a bill to set up a three-year program of mass immunization against polio, diphtheria, whooping cough and tetanus. The program, backed by $36,000,000 in federal funds, would be administered at state and local levels, and emphasize immunization of children under five. People of all ages would be eligible but states would have to pay for vaccine for the elders.

The emergency service after the plan goes into operation.

"We have only the press reports," he said.

Mr. Lloyd said he still hopes two orders-in-council passed Wednesday to allow doctors to practise privately and outside the plan will attract many doctors to continue normal practise.

"This morning we had some limited indication a few at least are coming to this decision, but I have nothing specific."

STILL HOPEFUL

Mr. Lloyd said he is still hopeful there may be a change of position on the part of the college, but that he cannot see what good further government approaches to the college would be at this time.

J. D. Connor, executive secretary of the Saskatchewan Urban Municipalities Association, said today he is drafting a letter to forward to urban officials Friday, indicating suggested steps that could be taken to minimize the effect of the withdrawal of normal medical service.

Mr. Connor said SUMA had attempted to mediate the dispute along with representatives of rural associations, hospital associations and health regions but that these efforts had failed.

With the start of the compulsory pre-paid medical care plan, the College of Physicians and Surgeons has said doctors' offices will close and only hospital-based emergency service will be provided.

The CCF government has stood firm in refusing to delay start of the plan until its effect on the medical profession are settled.

Hospitals in Saskatoon and Regina have prepared forms indicating to patients the nature of emergency service to be available.

Some will receive their awards from the governor-general in Ottawa at a date to be set; those unable to go there will receive them from Lieutenant Governor George Pearkes in Victoria.

The St. John's honors were distributed among 170 persons across Canada. Promoted to Knight of Grace was Percival Archibald Woodward, of the West Coast department-store group, who was cited as "a staunch supporter and wise counsellor" of the St. John B.C. council for many years.

A third managed to get back into West Berlin.

They were former refugees from East Germany trying to get their families out.

Witnesses reported one of the captured West Berliners was shot and wounded and the other roughly up.

WARN TOURISTS

In Saskatoon the board of trade announced plans to publish advertisements advising tourists there may be a shortage of medical care in the province this summer.

In Regina, Mineral Resources Minister J. H. Brockelbank announced plans for air or ground ambulance transportation of patients to hospitals which are staffed in Alberta or Manitoba, if necessary.

KITCHENER (CP) — A family of five—mother, father and three children—was found dead today in what police said was apparently murder and suicide.

Dead are Mr. and Mrs. Walter Brown and their children, Neil, four; Steven, three, and Russell, nine months.

The children were found drowned in the family bathtub. Mr. and Mrs. Brown, who moved here about six years ago from Toronto, were shot to death.

$4.5-Million Suit Against Air Engineers

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Eastern Air Lines asked U.S. District Court today for a $4,500,000 judgment against the Flight Engineers' International Association.

The damage suit was based on the engineers' strike against Eastern in February, 1961, and not the current walkout which has halted the airline's operations.

B.C. GOVERNMENT ASKED TO PROVIDE MONEY

Defence Fund for Douks Urged

VANCOUVER (CP) — A committee of 31 university professors, ministers and members of the Society of Friends has asked the British Columbia government to provide defence funds for 70 Sons of Freedom Doukhobors charged with conspiring to intimidate the federal and provincial governments.

The trial of the Freedmites is important because its results could set a precedent in interpreting the charge, never before laid in Canada since it passed into law in 1882, committee spokesman Werner Cohn, a University of B.C. sociology professor, said Wednesday.

The committee told a press conference it would set up a defence trust if necessary and make an appeal for money to help the Doukhobors pay for legal aid. An estimated $25,000 is needed. The trial, now in progress, is expected to last one month.

WOULD FORM GROUP

The committee is seeking formation of a Canadian civil liberties organization and a committee to consider relations between Doukhobors and the Canadian government.

"The committee said there is need for public concern about charges against the Doukhobors. The charges each carry 14-year maximum sentences and could be applied in other political situations."

They were laid against members of the sect's fraternal council after a long-planned mass arrest in Doukhobor communities of the B.C. interior, for years the centre of terrorist acts blamed on the Freedmites.

"There are already laws against murder, intimidation and bombing," said Mr. Cohn. "The charge of intimidating parliament could be levelled against many political groups—for example, against group that picketed parliament. It is a vague charge, and the results of this trial might set a precedent that would threaten civil rights."

The "sensational, unfavorable publicity" the 70 Doukhobors have received would make it hard to find an unprejudiced jury and increases the need for the best possible legal defence, the committee said.

Committee members include W. G. Dixon, director of the UBC school of social work; anthropologist Cyril Belshaw, who worked on the Hawthorn report on the Doukhobors; Rev. D. W. Moore, chairman of the United Church committee on evangelism and social service; Rev. William Nicholls, professor of religious studies; Merv Davis, executive director of the John Howard Society; sociologist professor Stanford Lyman and political science professor Dan Smiley.

SENATE APPOINTMENT FOR TORONTO LAWYER

OTTAWA (UPI)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker today announced the appointment of Toronto lawyer Harry A. Willis to the Senate.

Willis, 57, has been prominent in Conservative party campaign financing for many years.

His appointment was the second announced this week and raised Conservative strength in the 102-seat upper chamber to 26. There are 64 Liberals, two Independents and one Independent Liberal. Nine vacancies remain.

Willis is a governor of McMaster University, president of Caledon Holdings Ltd., vice-president of Consolidated Denison Mines Ltd., and a director of Standard Trust Company.

Liberals Back Early Session

By ALEX YOUNG
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Liberal members of parliament held their first strategy session Wednesday and came out spilling for an early election.

They voted complete confidence for their leader, Lester B. Pearson and promised to help him on to final victory in the next election.

Mr. Pearson and his followers also endorsed a policy statement declaring that Prime Minister John Diefenbaker had no right to stay in office if he waited until September to hold the next session of parliament.

The new parliament, Canada's 25th, should be called together at the earliest possible date "to get Canada's economy moving forward again," they said in a statement released after the four-hour and 10-minute meeting by Mr. Pearson.

The earliest date is after the election writs are returned July 18. The Liberal caucus said that "any delay beyond this date would be an affront to the people and to our democratic system."

After Mr. Pearson read the prepared statement on the caucus gathering, he was asked whether his party favored an early election, perhaps this fall.

"We feel we should go ahead and do our work as an opposition," he said, "and oppose where opposition is required."

"And if that results in a very early election that will not be an unwelcome result."

'Enthusiastic, Friendly, Eager'

Of the 99 Liberal MPs elected in the June 18 federal election, 80 were on hand for the opening of the caucus. By late afternoon, another 10 had arrived, overflowing the seating facilities in the Liberal caucus room. The other nine were unable to attend because of travel or illness difficulties, party officials said.

Mr. Pearson described the meeting as "enthusiastic, friendly and eager."

The meeting, which also discussed election results with particular reference to the gains made by the Social Credit and New Democratic parties, issued a statement for all MPs.

The statement expressed "grave concern" about the financial emergency Canada is in and the effect it might have on jobs and prices.

The Liberal party will co-operate in effective measures to protect the soundness of the currency," said the statement in backing the stand taken Tuesday by Mr. Pearson.

The statement also insisted the nation's present financial difficulties had not "sprung up suddenly."

"They are the outcome of the slowdown in our economy and the financial mismanagement of the past five years," the statement said. "It is distorting facts to pretend otherwise."

The defensive measures taken, however, should not last beyond the emergency, the Liberals said.

"In addition to meeting the financial emergency," the statement declared, "there must be effective and constructive measures to get Canada's economy moving forward again—to restore full employment and to bring about the freest possible trade."

"All these things must and

MP Given Suspended Sentence

OTTAWA (CP)—Raymond Bruneau, 45, today was found guilty of accepting a $10,000 bribe in 1956 while he was the Liberal member of Parliament for Glengary-Prescott.

County Judge Frank Costello gave him a suspended sentence. Bruneau was accused of accepting the money to use his influence in the government's purchase of property at Hawkesbury, Ont., for a post office site. He pleaded not guilty, arguing that the money was a loan.

Judge Costello said it would be an insult to members of Parliament to impose a prison term on Bruneau as a deterrent. He ordered him to sign a bond to keep the peace for two years.

"This government now proposes to continue in office through the summer and to put into effect an emergency financial program without calling together in parliament the representatives whom the Canadian people have newly elected," the Liberal statement said.

"We are all concerned that the critical decisions now necessary should be made in the best interests of the Canadian people," it continued.

The Liberal leader and Mr. Pearson today leave for New Brunswick and a week of fishing.

OTTAWA 'REVIEWS' CONTRACTS

Area Faced With Loss Of $24 Million Jobs

A staggering $24,000,000 worth of planned and promised federal contracts for this area were hoisted "for review" by Ottawa Wednesday.

Most of the projects will not survive the cost-cutting austerity review but officials said it would be some time before they could say which projects will proceed.

The cuts are bound to hurt prospects for the construction and ship-building industries here over the next two or three years.

Among projects Victoria will have to kiss au revoir—again—and possibly adieu is the oft-delayed Patricia Bay airport terminal building.

STUDY TO START

"In view of the government's program, the Patricia Bay project will have to be reviewed," said Transport Minister Leon Balcer.

"I can't say when a decision will be reached, but the study will begin without delay."

The air terminal, promised for five years now, has been delayed several times on the heels of announcements that it was imminent. Each time its size was cut.

The last letter from Mr. Balcer to worried civic officials here said it would go ahead but also suggested it was not a high priority project because of diminishing air traffic here.

Here are the other Victoria area projects that have been suspended pending the full-scale pruning review by Ottawa:

Two new weatherships, each costing $7,000,000;

A forest research building at Burnside and the Island Highway valued at $2,000,000;

A Canadian Coast Guard headquarters and depot building in the Inner Harbor, worth more than $3,000,000;

A Pacific Oceanographic Research Institute, estimated at $4,000,000;

Various wharves and breakwaters totalling an estimated $500,000.

Vancouver to Drop Freeways Project

VANCOUVER (CP)—City council will be advised to postpone indefinitely the proposed $340,000,000 freeway system for Vancouver.

A special committee headed by Alderman Halford Wilson decided Wednesday that existing streets should be developed to their maximum capacity. Construction of freeways, the committee held, should be considered only if or when traffic congestion becomes intolerable on the present arteries.

The policy comes from a recent statement by Premier Bennett that the provincial government is unwilling to contribute to freeway costs in the city. The premier indicated that provincial assistance might be expected for widening and improving existing streets.

camera enthusiasts and specially prepared signs to point out odd features such as the Indian figurehead on the prow of Steamboat Mountain, or the teetering rock on the skyline near Mile 362 or the weird erosion pillars rising like statues from the flanks of a mountain near the summit. There are other reminders, too: every fatal accident is recorded on the spot by a blood red sign.

It has struck us that we are driving through North America's last frontier. For there is no longer a road like this elsewhere on the continent.

Ocean of Conifers

After the pavement stops we found we had entered an enormous wilderness area—a vast region of unbroken forests, rivers, lakes and mountains. Save for the thin line of the big road snaking north, it looks today as it did when the first fur traders arrived.

We camped in the heart of this forest ocean on our first night on the Alaska Highway, pitching our tent on the very tip of the Prophet River valley which must be 20 miles across from rim to rim. Far, far below a dark sea of conifers stretched off in rolling waves towards the blue Rockies glistening in the sunlight.

Today we entered a new and entirely different mountain world. The highway twists through these peaks for 200 miles and it is a numbing sight to drive for a full day with the scenery right on top of you.

Geology Lesson

For the children it has been an education. In the McDonald valley where the peaks seem to have been upended by some Godlike paw, where glacial fans five miles wide have been scooped from mountain flanks, where the strata wriggle this way and that and the tumbling water cuts chisel marks in the granite, we had an on the spot geology lesson as precious as a year of high school science.

How long all this will remain untouched is hard to predict. Already the highway has brought its measure of civilization to the last great frontier. The most dreadful sight of all are the vast burned areas which increase in number yearly. We drove today for miles through a gaunt gray world where cadavers of roasted trees poke eerily from the blackened mosses. It was a sobering experience.

Mouse Didn't Run

Settlement is coming to the highway in bits and pieces. Gas, oil, meals, hamburgers, popsicles, groceries, house-keeping cabins, ice and luxury motel rooms, and all that these connote are now available at

Austin Made It

Once a year a Los Angeles promoter comes down the highway with a trailer load of reindeer for Christmas displays. A DUKW amphibious car has made the trip and so calls himself Walking John and who refuses to accept any lifts. An arthritic grandmother has gone all the way and back in a specially equipped Volkswagen bus. One man has done the whole thing—non-stop—in an Austin.

For these and the thousands of tourists in more conventional campers and trailers a certain amount of civilization is necessary, nay, welcome. Fortunately the road is too long and the country too wide to be easily transformed into one long Las Vegas strip.

Just how unspoiled and wild it still is was brought home to us tonight when the smaller children spotted a brown mouse near the river. When they toddled after it, the mouse did not run. Indeed he allowed himself to be petted. Nine-year-old Patsy brought him an Arrowroot biscuit and the mouse, who had never known human kind, ate it greedily while the eight of us sat around watching wide-eyed and enchanted in the shadow of the Rockies far from the hoots and catcalls of the settled world.

Estes Case Moved

PECOS, Tex. (AP)—The quick felony trial requested Monday by Billie Sol Estes was halted abruptly Wednesday. Postponement of the trial was requested by his lawyers. They said questioning of prospective jurors indicated knowledge of Estes' activities is so widespread it would be impossible to obtain a fair trial in Pecos at this time.

Putting on the Screws

AMONG MANY OTHER things, even more important, the Columbia River power problem has been plunged into the chaos of Canada's new Parliament. Taking quick advantage of this political stalemate, Premier Bennett already has laid down the terms on which he will support the Diefenbaker government. He demands the immediate ratification of the Columbia treaty. This may be safely taken to mean that the government must surrender to him in the long dispute about the sale of the downstream Columbia power.

In most questions of national policy, Mr. Bennett does not enjoy the influence which he claims. He is not the leader of the Social Credit Party, he was clearly repudiated at the polls of his own province and to Mr. Thompson he may well appear more as a liability than an asset. But in the case of the Columbia he probably can have his way with the Social Credit delegation in Parliament, for this is particularly his own business and the Quebec Social Crediters are not much interested in it anyway.

Presumably, therefore, Mr. Bennett can lay down his party's terms on the Columbia. It does not follow that the Diefenbaker government must inevitably accept them at the cost of swallowing its own policies. For if the government is prepared to re-negotiate the Columbia treaty and make a better deal with the United States, undoubtedly the Liberal opposition will support it.

Either way, of course, the government would have to revise its position. To satisfy Mr. Bennett it must alienate the downstream power which Messrs. Green, Fleming and Fulton have promised never to do. If it is to have the backing of the Liberal opposition, the government must agree to alter a treaty which it never liked but to which it is committed.

Here, as elsewhere, the government faces a hard choice but Mr. Bennett seems to have good reason for confidence. It is unlikely that the government, in its desperate need of parliamentary votes, will dare to quarrel with the Social Credit splinter. It may pierce the hearts of Messrs. Green, Fleming and Fulton but, for the time being, it is essential to the government. Though Mr. Bennett can hardly get all he wants from the new Parliament, or even from his friends there, he should be able to have his way, with perhaps slight modifications, on the Columbia while the people of this province pay, in electrical bills, the high price of his Peace scheme. All of which is the price of maintaining Mr. Bennett in office, at least until the next provincial election.

Playing Liquor Politics

THE AMAZING 25 PER CENT increase in retail prices of imported liquor imposed this week by the provincial government has strong political overtones.

Even the government's own liquor chief Col. Donald McGugan, confesses that a blanket increase was imposed simply because the cabinet was fearful of what austerity and the devalued dollar would do to liquor costs.

When they find out exactly what the tariff surcharge amounts to, the colonel explained, they will sort out what the actual retail prices should be.

Anyone who is informed regarding the liquor business knows that the substantial federal tariffs and taxes are applied at the wholesale level. The effect of dollar devaluation is at the same level, which is barely a quarter of the final selling price to the public.

Thus to impose a 25 per cent retail price boost in compensation for a 15 per cent wholesale tariff and a 10 per cent swing in the dollar value, is nothing short of greed.

The only conclusion that can be drawn—if taxes are not the main issue—is that the Social Credit cabinet is using the liquor prices as a political weapon against the federal Tories, since the price-boost is all blamed on the dollar crisis created in Ottawa. In other words the Socials are playing politics with the public's pocket book.

The admission that the 25 per cent boost is a protective measure until final effects of the dollar policy are known only compounds the case. None of the liquor now held in stock by the Liquor Board has been subject to the new tariff surcharge, which went into effect only Monday. It will apply only on new stocks entering the country. What, then, was all the hurry?

To Grow With the Community

IN A NEW BROCHURE produced in its tenth anniversary year the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria surveys its growth to date and its prospects for the future. The former is stimulating, the latter are challenging. Few if any galleries in Canada have shown the rapid development which the Moss Street institution has experienced in the past few years: few can look forward to more promising local support than our Gallery.

No one has had more influence in this growth and these prospects than the curator, Mr. Colin Graham, a man of national stature in his field and a priceless asset to the Gallery.

The brochure makes the point that the world supply of available art treasures is quickly dwindling as galleries and museums in every country acquire old masters and objects of art as they are put up for sale. Already the market demand for painting, sculpture and other art forms has sent prices soaring. This situation will become even more pressing and Mr. Graham stresses that only a few years are left to the local Gallery to try to get a share of the world's art for its permanent collection.

Contemporary art, of course, is in continual production; but here again a rising market demand means that any gallery that hopes to make a worthy contribution to its community's culture must be alert to add to its collection.

The handsome Centennial Wing and the excellent Ker Gallery are only a portion of the eventual quarters of the local institution. Long-term plans call for other buildings and a sculpture court, so that eventually Greater Victoria will add to its existing reputation as the possessor of one of the finest small galleries in the country, if not in North America.

There are a number of ways in which residents may contribute to this future. Annual membership is, of course, a basic aid and a rewarding interest. But larger assistance can be given through gifts of funds for endowment or operating revenues or purchase of art works. Art objects and funds may also be left to the Gallery as bequests—a very worthy form of community memorial for any citizen.

As the brochure says: "An art gallery's vitality is measured by its month-to-month programs, its importance by the quality and extent of its permanent collection."

Both factors are of concern to every resident of this community.

Experiment In Mobile Schools

MOVABLE SCHOOLROOMS are not a novelty. In Victoria, as elsewhere, certain units have been constructed in such a way that they could be transported to new sites when a school accommodation emergency had been overcome in the locality where they were erected.

But if the purpose was similar, the design differed from that of teaching units in certain parts of Chicago. There the authorities have met the problem of quick school population explosions with trailer classrooms. Two of these can be joined to make teaching areas up to 20 feet by 40 feet. And groups of them can be used as adequate "schools," particularly adapted to primary work, where a floating population creates a sudden demand which may not be permanent.

The units are hauled by tractor on removable wheels. The wheels are taken off when they reach the selected location and the rooms are joined together. The school emerges in about a day.

This is not, of course, a complete substitute for a permanent school. It is, however, a means of overcoming an emergency. Apparently it meets the purpose for which it is designed and provides space for teaching while more permanent buildings are constructed where such construction is justified.

"Mom! ... School's out! ..."

Bierman, Victoria Daily Times.

FROM MONTREAL

A Negative Factor on the Canadian Scene

By DALE C. THOMSON

WHAT has gone wrong in Quebec this time? political observers here are being asked since Social Credit soared to prominence in French Canada on election night.

In a few words, Quebec demonstrated once again that it is not a province like the others. The men and women who voted for Social Credit on Monday voted primarily to reject the three other, and more nation-wide, parties.

The Social Credit voter of June 18 was in most cases the Union Nationale voter of the Duplessis era. Generally speaking, he lives in the most remote parts of Quebec; his region has shared little in Canada's general prosperity; and he himself is in the lower income brackets. In addition, he is more than likely unilingual and so he has scarcely any contact with English-speaking Canada.

As long as a Maurice Duplessis posed as their father-benefactor, and impressed them with his charismatic powers, Social Credit made little impact upon these Canadians. But Mr. Duplessis is gone, and his successor, Daniel Johnson, has not yet succeeded in inheriting his image with his title, Real Caouette, on the other hand, is in the grand tradition of mob rousers.

More Volatile

In observing Quebec, English-Canadians do well to bear two things in mind: First, that French-Canadian society is more effervescent and volatile than their own; and, second, that a colorful leader is a much greater asset to a party here than in the rest of the country. The upsurge of Social Credit in Quebec last week is largely due to the colorful television and platform performances of Mr. Caouette.

Except for a few fanatics, Social Credit support in Quebec comes from people with little interest in politics, and certainly little understanding of Social Credit monetary theories.

They were unable to distinguish between the platforms of the old parties; the New Democratic Party was socialist and therefore they were told by the Social Crediters and others) akin to Communism. They wanted a change, and Mr. Caouette appealed to them with slogans such as "What have you got to lose" and "It can't be worse."

Many Quebecers admitted that they were voting Social Credit "just for fun." It was the "smart" (not in the sense of intelligent) thing to do this time, just as it was smart to be an Elvis Presley fan in many circles a few years ago. Who is to say that, if the separatists had run and had been able to put on as dynamic a campaign, they would not have had a similar success?

Public Opinion

Nonetheless, credit must be given to Mr. Caouette and his colleagues for assessing public opinion so well and putting on the type of campaign that could attract the low income groups. He made full use of the fact that Social Credit is the right wing party of Canada; he rallied against the "interests" that, according to him, dominate the other parties to the detriment of Quebec.

He promised increased family allowances, Social Credit dividends, an end to the public debt and lower taxes. He referred to distant Alberta and British Columbia as proof that these things could be accomplished, and all simultaneously. Not having any personal knowledge of those western provinces, and in view of few denials from the other parties, the voters decided to take a chance.

The coming months will tell if Social Credit can be retained and repulsed, or whether it will grow. At the moment it looks pretty much like a passing fancy. Much will depend on the performance of the Social Credit group in the House of Commons.

Real Leader

It is clear that Mr. Caouette and not Mr. Thompson will be the real leader. Mr. Thompson speaks no French, and a majority of his members speak hardly any English. Moreover, the only chance of further Social Credit success is to maintain the sort of tempestuous campaign against the other parties that is Mr. Caouette's specialty.

Nevertheless, the other parties have cause for concern. Already the Social Crediters have placed in jeopardy the Liberal party's historic place in the hearts of many French-Canadians. And the Conservatives have been weakened to a point that they will have great difficulty maintaining even the former mediocre French-Canadian representation in the cabinet. The Social Crediters have effectively stolen the aura of newness from the NDP.

More serious still, the Social Credit upsurge is a further threat to national unity. This party appeals to the basest prejudices, and it exploits the deepest fears. It is a negative factor on the Canadian political scene. It behooves the other parties to recapture the vacuum they left for Social Credit to walk into, and to do it soon.

FROM WASHINGTON

Is it the Year for a Serious Debate?

By WALTER LIPPMANN

WE have now had the first round of the debate on economic policy: the President's speech at Yale and Gen. Eisenhower's speech at the Republican Congressional fundraising dinner. Is it, one wonders, possible in a campaign year to have a serious debate? For it is evident from the General's speech that he does not intend to be drawn into the kind of debate which the President asked for at Yale. The General is not going to debate the theory of the balanced budget in relation to recovery, recession, and growth, and he will not engage himself in the search for a policy, approved by all, which might rescue the administration from the trouble it is in.

Lippmann

Does this mean that it is Utopian to think that in a democracy like ours a great national problem can be debated seriously and responsibly for the purpose of deciding the issues and arriving at a consensus?

I do not think it is Utopian, even in a campaign year. For the President has the necessary power to bring about a constructive debate. But he cannot bring it about by expounding a theory which may or may not be discussed. He can bring it about by posing an issue which has to be decided, by taking a position which can be opposed or approved, but cannot be ignored.

The President's speech at Yale would be the opening round of a great debate if it were followed by a program of legislation and administrative action to carry out its ideas. Without the program it is merely an overture, something to be played while the audience are finding their seats.

As Our Readers See It

Austerity

No longer do our politics Spell black and white today; Indeed, confusion rips us now That we have had our say! Uncertain, too, is government, With Parliament untried; Yet policies to fit the case Must answer far and wide: Across the land the die is cast, Conditioned, man to man; "O Canada! Take up your bed And walk again. You can." ALAN GREIG.

1141 Fort St.

The besetting vice of popular debate is that it runs so quickly to passionate generalities and emotional rhetoric, and the only remedy for the vice is to make the issue sharp, concrete, and decisive.

Thus the Yale speech would be an effective overture to a specific program, let us say, to cut taxes this summer thereby increasing the budgetary deficit. But without some such concrete proposal the speech can be ignored as Gen. Eisenhower ignored it.

There is a certain truth in Gen. Eisenhower's charge that the Administration is "floundering." The truth is that the Administration has not yet taken the decision which would constitute a program for prolonging the recovery, postponing recession, and promoting the rate of growth.

The Administration is waiting to see how sluggish is the economy. It is struggling to reconcile the domestic need for an expansionary policy with the international threat to the position of the dollar. In other words, it is waiting to see.

Until it believes it knows how to combine an expansionary deficit in the domestic budget with a constrictive deficit in the balance of payments, the Administration, because it does not know all the answers, will be floundering.

There is an old saying that to govern is to choose, and the President will have the debate he wants only when he has made the choices which give him a program. If, for example, he were to decide to ask for a tax cut this summer, the country would have something more significant to talk about than just how much Republican businessmen love and how much they hate the President and his family.

To have the confidence of the opposition is a rare thing. It cannot be had by pleading for it. It can be had, I suppose, only when the conditions are ripe, when events are favorable, and when the party in power has enough humility about itself and enough magnanimity about its adversary.

If that is approximately correct, the President will best re-establish a certain confidence — one must not expect miracles in a two-party system — by stimulating business, in spite of his critics, and by continuing to treat Gen. Eisenhower with unrequited magnanimity.

Source Of Misery

By DENNIS BLOODWORTH

NOW that Laos is to be unified under a coalition Government and peace has been restored, the wives of the Meo tribesmen of the north Laotian uplands will once more be trekking down to the markets in the plains to barter their agricultural produce for cloth and salt. The agricultural produce of the Meos consists of one cash crop—opium.

Opium does not figure in the official trading statistics of Vientiane, but it is, nevertheless, the country's biggest source of revenue, for in the Far East the large white flowers of the opium poppy bloom above all in the wild hills that run from southwest China through the Shan States of Burma into northern Laos.

The opium, pressed in the spring from the poppy's unripe capsules, is sold in the villages of the flatlands to the south, smuggled into Thailand and Vietnam, and from there distributed throughout the world by international dope rings.

There are signs that business is brisk in the past few days 160,000-worth of Laotian opium has been found in three parked cars in a Saigon suburb, a cardboard beer case containing 12,000 grammes of heroin has been seized by the Thai police, and in northwest Thailand some 3,000 pounds of raw opium were discovered concealed in the roof of a bus.

This traffic—until a few years ago at least tolerated by the governments of several states in this region—is now officially illegal in all of them. In Korea a man may be sentenced to death for drug smuggling, in Hong Kong he risks life imprisonment for processing opium.

Hundreds Raided

The narcotics police of President Ngo Dinh Diem and Premier Sarit Thanarat have raided and closed hundreds of opium dens in Vietnam and Thailand respectively, and burned all the pipes they have been able to confiscate. The government of Formosa has recently smashed a major smuggling organization and detained all but three of its operatives, and increased vigilance has led to more arrests in Japan.

In Macao the price of heroin (derived from opium via morphine) has gone up from approximately £780 to £870 a pound, and a fall in demand has meanwhile brought that of opium down. But while those fighting the drug traffic throughout the area claim some successes, the problem of stopping it is enormous.

There are nearly 60,000 opium addicts in Burma, more than 70,000 in Laos. The British authorities have announced a decrease in the number in Hong Kong since 1960—but the 1960 figure was 150,000.

The governments of China and North Vietnam have introduced draconian measures in order to stamp out addiction in their own countries, but the Marxists have more flexible morals when it comes to exporting "foreign mud" to the capitalist world outside.

At the Geneva conference of the UN Narcotics Commission, which ended earlier this month, the American delegate, Mr. Harry Anslinger, declared that the drug traffic from Southwest China was increasing, and that heavily-laden opium caravans of up to 200 mules were regularly crossing into Burma and Thailand.

Both in 1960 and 1961 it was estimated that more than 85 per cent of all opium seized in Singapore had come from the Communist Chinese province of Yunnan, or from the neighboring hills of Burma and Laos.

The opium den or "smoking saloon" is still a feature of every city in Southeast Asia. Plush, workaday, or bare and sordid, the dens cater for somebody from the tourist to the rickshaw coolie. The scene is, in essentials, always much the same.

Stretches Out

The smoker stretches out on a low wooden bed, while his gentle, emaciated host—or an assistant—crouches at his feet, teases a pill of opium on the end of a needle held over a small lamp, and then applies it to a membrane on the body of the pipe.

With the opium still held over the flame, the smoker puts his mouth to the end of the clarinet-like pipe and draws the smoke down into his lungs, if possible, with one long intake of breath. The pipe crepitates for perhaps ten seconds, the sickly, butterscotch smell of opium fills the room, and then the pill is exhausted.

The smoker lies back, feeling relaxed, at peace. He is five or ten shillings out of pocket and one step nearer to becoming like the skeletal figure at his feet.

An amateur at this game may smoke four, six, or even eight pipes in any evening. But the addict will get through 30 or 50 a day, and in the cheap dives where the dregs of the drug are sold, the doomed and skinny breadwinners of half-starved families fitter away on the pipe of oblivion the little money they can still earn by day—pedalling a cycle rickshaw, cleaning the streets, working on the docks—until they are too weak and fuddled for any kind of labor.

One of the problems before Prince Souvanna Phouma, Prime Minister of the new coalition government of Laos, is that the economy of his country is so closely-linked—however unofficially—with the cultivation and sale of this source of so much misery and ruin.

CAN'T BE TOPPED

One of my problems (in writing a humorous column is that there are many things which you can't improve on. For instance, there's a notice at London Bridge Station that says: "Up stairs for Underground." One can't write an article that would improve on that. And there's a notice at Kingston-on-Thames which says: "To the Crematorium. Pedestrians Only."

Gerald Waring ...REPORTING

OTTAWA — There's a story that the fabulous female financier, Hattie Green, hired a locomotive in New York and rode its cab to Philadelphia to get there in time to buy a railroad and make a handful of millions.

"Who's looney now?" she wired her brother, who was attempting to have her certified for the booby hatch.

In the same context, John Diefenbaker was trying not long ago to have Lester Pearson certified by the Canadian people. On June 11 the prime minister said:

"The Liberal leader did Canada harm, untold harm, when he made the statement that the Canadian government was forced to borrow or it received some assistance of $62 millions from foreign banks or foreign nations to bolster our exchange reserves. He said further that we had lost $500 millions on the exchange rate in maintaining it. My answer was, and still is, those statements are not true and weren't true."

Now it's a matter of public record that Canada's gold and U.S. dollar reserves were $2 billions last Dec. 1, give or take a few millions. By June 1 they were down to less than $1.5 billions. And on June 24 the prime minister said:

"Canada's official holdings of gold and U.S. dollars now stand at approximately $1.1 billion. To reinforce these reserves... Canada is exercising its borrowing rights with the International Monetary Fund and is drawing $300 millions." He listed other foreign lines of credit and currency arrangements the government had made to bolster reserves. "This international financial support adds well over one billion dollars in cash and standby credits to Canada's exchange reserves..."

THE LIGHTER SIDE

Lombardo in Limbo

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Earlier this month I paid my respects to the International Jazz Festival staged here under the auspices of one of President Kennedy's cultural committees.

In keeping with my non-partisan approach to all matters cultural or political, it seemed only fair that I give equal time to the other side.

So I arranged an interview this week with Guy Lombardo.

Lombardo, as every schmaltz lover knows, plays "the sweetest music this side of heaven." And since January, 1961, he has been playing the sweetest music outside the White House.

For 24 years his orchestra performed at all of the presidential inaugural balls in the capital and received occasional invitations to entertain at the executive mansion.

But when the Kennedy administration came in, it was limbo for Lombardo.

He is currently playing a commercial engagement at the Shoreham Hotel, which is the only way he can get to Washington these days.

I must say, however, that Lombardo seems to be bearing up very well in exile. When I joined him at lunch, he was as

As the PM said June 14, "The truth has been on our side. We have given you the facts. We have bared the record. We have concealed nothing and shaded nothing... We have kept your dollar strong."

And as he said June 25, it was "only in very recent days" that "the emergent situation" developed — curiously similar to the situation Pearson had described early in June.

"All over the world they (the Liberals) besmirch the good name of Canada," Diefenbaker said on June 11. "They want to rule and if they don't rule they don't care what ruin they bring to Canada," he charged. The effect of the pegging of the dollar, he added, is "conclusive evidence... of the complete untruth of their predictions of doom and gloom."

Well, as Hattie Green might say...

On May 14 Diefenbaker said, "Five years ago — and Canadians know it to their sorrow — there was in force a deliberate policy of tight money which had checked the progress of the economy."

June 15: "We ended tight money."

June 24: The Bank of Canada announced that "after consultation with the prime minister" it was boosting the bank rate to 6 per cent, up from 3½ two months earlier. This action heralds the return of tight money.

Again May 14: "Your taxes are down," the PM said.

June 24 the PM announced a new 5 to 15 per cent tax on half of all Canada's imports.

Necessary? Yes. But timed right? No — action should have been taken weeks ago... about the time Diefenbaker was telling the voters that "We kept Canada strong and made her stronger."

By DICK WEST

cheerful as an orchestra leader can be at that time of day.

Lombardo recalled that shortly after the 1960 presidential election, he and Lawrence Welk happened to meet at the Los Angeles Airport.

"I'm ready," Welk told him. "I've arranged to do my television broadcast from Washington the week of the inauguration so that I can play at the ball."

"I'm all set, too," Lombardo responded. "I've already told my booking agency to keep that night open."

Neither was invited. The program committee had other ideas.

In retrospect, Lombardo regards his encounter with Welk as highly amusing. I don't know how Welk feels about it.

Although President Kennedy apparently is not enraptured by the style of music that Lombardo represents, there is no gainsaying that it is a part of the nation's cultural life. It occurred to me the administration could profit by giving it the same sort of boost it recently gave to jazz groups.

This might help the president put an end to charges that the administration is anti-business. Such music is often described as "the businessman's bounce."

I asked Lombardo what he thought of the idea and he responded enthusiastically. "We could call it an 'international corn festival,'" he said.

HOME GARDEN

By HILDA BEASTALL

Kitchen Herbs Ready for Gather

There are many kinds of culinary herbs ready now to be gathered for drying.

Those most desirable in the dried state for winter use are the ones which will not be available fresh from the garden after frost.

Thus it is mainly annual herbs such as sweet marjoram, summer savory, sweet basil and anise which need to be dried. The old favorites, sage, thyme and rosemary, can be gathered fresh as required all year.

Herbs are at their best for gathering when the flower heads are forming, and before the blossoms open. The plants should be dry — that is, not have moisture on their leaves from recent rain or dew — and warm, so that late morning on a sunny day is the ideal time to choose.

Cut the stems from the plant, having them four or five inches long, and put each kind of herb into a separate paper bag with its name written on the outside.

The bags should be hung in a warm, dry, airy place such as a shed which is closed at night, or outdoors under similar conditions and taken in at night.

Depending on temperatures prevailing, and the amount of air moving around the bags, the leaves will take from three to six days to become brittle dry. They can then be removed from the stems quite easily and stored in glass jars with screw lids.

Flavor will be much finer if the leaves are not powdered before storage. Just the amount to be used each time can be powdered between the thumb and finger as it is added to the dish at cooking time.

Sage and mint may take a week or more before they will crumble, but thyme and parsley will dry almost as rapidly as the annuals.

Sweet basil will probably not be ready to gather until late in July, for it is a warm weather herb and has not enjoyed the cool spring.

Dried herbs should not be exposed to light after they are put into their jars or they will lose some of their color and aroma.

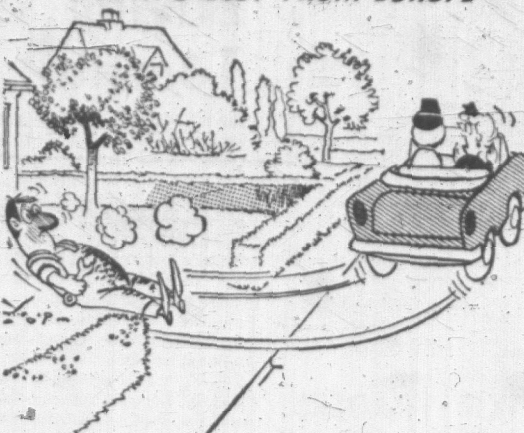

A second cutting can usually be made during August.

NEGROES GO NORTH

'Freedom Ride In Reverse'

By AL COLLETTI

NEW YORK (CP) — Destitute southern Negroes, given one-way tickets north by segregationist groups, have found life can be difficult in the northern United States too.

Some have found jobs. Others have not. Some have returned to the south.

They number only a few hundred compared with the millions of Negroes who have left the south on their own initiative since the end of the Second World War, settling primarily in big northern cities such as New York, Chicago and Detroit.

The movement to pay the fares of Negroes and send them to the so-called integrationist states started in Louisiana last April.

Arch segregationists labelled it the reverse freedom bus riders movement and claimed it was the south's answer to the "Freedom Riders" who invaded the Deep South to test segregated facilities in interstate travel.

Many of the reverse freedom riders have been women and children, some with no means of support except through benefactors at their northern destinations.

LACK JOB SKILLS

Some of the men have not had jobs in years. Many are unskilled.

Their reception generally has been cordial, but always there is the question of finding jobs, particularly for the unskilled.

The segregationist-sponsored migration began with the arrival in New York of Louis Boyd's family of 10 on April 21. The hospitality accorded them by New York, where some 1,000,000 Negroes live in the Harlem section alone, was unique.

Welfare agencies were on hand to give the family aid. Employers offered jobs and landlords housing.

This perhaps encouraged other Negroes to leave their southern homes and the white Citizens Council to keep the reverse freedom rides alive.

But Boyd's sunny start soon became overcast. The firm that had hired him as a $100-a-week handyman ran into financial difficulties, failed to meet a payroll and folded, throwing him out of work again.

SENT TO HYANNIS PORT

Many of the reverse freedom riders were sent to Hyannis Port, Mass., where President Kennedy has a summer home. Only a few jobs were available in the area and some 40 persons — 33 of them children — had to be placed in a college dormitory.

Several went to Boston, where job opportunities are better.

Rt. Rev. Anson Phelps Stokes, Episcopal (Anglican) Bishop of Massachusetts, bitterly criticized the shipping of penniless Negroes to northern communities, saying it is cruelty "below the standards of a civilized nation."

Some Negroes said they had been given $5 each by the Citizens Council to pay for their food on the trip north.

A white Little Rock clothier, James Karan, who heads a group known as "We Who Care," made a bid to entice Negroes shipped from Arkansas to return from Massachusetts, but the Negroes replied they preferred to remain in the north.

Of the handful of reverse freedom riders known to have arrived in Chicago, two are employed and one has returned to New Orleans.

Rebels Keep Jump Ahead In Viet Nam 'Hamlet War'

By CONRAD FINK

SAIGON (AP) — A four-day major land-air-water offensive against pro-Communist guerrilla jungle strongholds ended Wednesday in exhaustion and frustration for government troops. They claimed little concrete military success.

The government reported 43 Viet. Cong rebels were killed and 26 captured by the 2,300-man South Viet Nam task force that struck at three peninsulas in the Mekong River delta region 50 miles south of Saigon. There were no official estimates of government losses.

Government forces were backed up by U.S. helicopters, naval units and 40 U.S. military advisers.

The elusive rebels managed to keep one jump ahead of Vietnamese troops and fought only delaying battles.

U.S. advisers said one objective of the offensive was to clear the area of guerrillas. Although this failed, Americans claimed partial success for the operation.

Apparently feeling it impossible to root out every guerrilla in South Viet Nam's jungle and swamps, the government is putting the greatest stress on "strategic hamlets," where it is training peasants to defend themselves against rebel attacks.

While this effort is under way, the army's job is to prevent regular guerrilla units from forming up for attacks on hamlets and other government installations. In this respect, the four-day offensive succeeded, the U.S. adviser said.

The government's biggest problems were the almost unbelievably rugged terrain, Vietnamese armed forces' inability to smoothly carry out large-scale manoeuvres, and stalled heavy equipment.

New Ray of Hope For Our Economy

By GORDON BELL
Times Business Editor

Fact that the U.S. last week, for the fifth consecutive week, managed to hold its gold supply at a constant rate, provoked considerable surprise in international financial circles.

It is also a ray of hope in the dismal gloom of the Canadian financial situation.

There is reason to believe that two factors—both of which have been put into play to a degree in Canada—had an influence on the U.S. gold situation.

One is the stated determination of the U.S. administration to work more effectively toward cutting down on huge government deficits. This is the course, which the Canadian government has pledged to follow.

Second is the currency exchange agreement worked out between the U.S. Treasury and the central banks of a number of European countries. The drawing accounts which Canada has arranged with Britain, the U.S. and the International Monetary Fund should have a similar effect on stabilizing the Canadian dollar.

Just as the U.S. arrangements protect the U.S. dollar from international "bear" raids so the backing given the Canadian dollar acts as a buffer until a more stable financial situation is achieved here.

The danger faced by both the U.S. and Canada in their respective dollar and gold problems is that political expediency—pressures for more government spending to boost the GNP and cut unemployment—can cause foreign confidence to collapse very quickly.

Westcoast Transmission Co. Ltd. president Frank McMahon has reported to shareholders that the company is in a position now to deliver a total of 365 million cubic feet of gas daily into the U.S. market if sales can be arranged.

However, a spokesman for the firm in Vancouver has declined to comment on the availability of new markets in the south, a question which is being thrashed out in lengthy hearings before the Federal Power Commission.

It is known though that Westcoast is still confident of arranging further export sales. The Westcoast annual report to March 31 shows a net profit of $2,026,000, second profit for the company since first gas deliveries were made five years ago, compared with a 1960-61 net profit of $185,214.

The 1961-62 profit was after charges of $5,311,355 for depreciation, $7,975,298 for amortization, and interest payments and $7,570,593 for reduction of debts.

Average daily gas sales at 325 million cubic feet were up 11 per cent from the previous year and peak daily delivery reached 444 million cubic feet.

Reserves in the Peace River area were increased by 72 million cubic feet a day and plans have been made to connect five new fields to the Westcoast line.

Further reserves, believed to the largest on the continent, are indicated in the Fort Nelson area where 29 wells have been completed. 11 of them wildcats brought in during the past season. Eventually a 250-mile, 30-inch pipeline from the main line near Chetwynd to Fort Nelson is to be built.

Board Hears Final Pleas On Pay Raise

Final arguments of a civil service appeal for higher wages were heard by a board of reference Wednesday.

Board chairman Dr. H. F. Angus has said a decision on the appeals will be made in July.

The board Wednesday heard an appeal by provincial government foresters for pay boosts averaging 12 per cent.

The foresters, government engineers, nurses and the B.C. Government Employees Association all have appealed three to five per wage increases granted by the government in April for senior categories.

More Than 700 Items Hit By New Tariff Charges

VANCOUVER (CP) — Federal customs officials Wednesday were still trying to untangle with Vancouver importers the newly-announced tariff surcharges ranging from five to 15 percent and which is expected to affect retail prices of many imported items.

The tariff changes, along with other austerity moves, were announced Sunday by Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

The new tariffs affect more than 700 items. There was no indication how many would increase in price. But some Vancouver auto firms handling imported cars have upped prices. The B.C. Liquor Control Board boosted prices on imported liquor.

Here are some of the imported items which will be affected:

Fifteen percent tariff boost: pretzels, orchids, truffles, sugar candy and confectionery, cigars, cigarettes, liquor and wines, toilet articles, some guns and rifles, roller skates, motion picture screen projectors, oriental rugs and carpets, dolls, mechanical toys, electric train sets and jewelry.

SHAVERS, CAMERAS

Ten percent tariff boost: biscuits, advertising and printed matter, banknotes, labels, picture postcards, wallpaper, soap powders, shoe blacking, certain tableware and china, bathtubs, mirrors, washing machines and clothes dryers, power lawn mowers, automobiles, electric shavers, cameras and accessories, golf clubs, baseball bats, certain items of clothing, umbrellas, buttons, cigarette holders.

A-G Denies Interference

VANCOUVER (CP) — Attorney-General Bonner denied Wednesday he had interfered with the courts in commenting on a Supreme Court of Canada decision in the B.C. Electric case.

He made the denial in a statement read to the B.C. Supreme Court by crown counsel M. M. McFarlane.

Chief Justice Sherwood Lett had asked for a check on the accuracy of Mr. Bonner's comments after Douglas Brown, Corp., said they constituted an attempt to interfere with the court.

The comment concerned a Supreme Court of Canada decision ordering the B.C. Electric placed back in receivership until B.C. Power's suit is settled.

Mr. McFarlane said the attorney-general had been asked to comment on the effect the re-appointment of a receiver would have on day-to-day operations of the B.C. Hydro and Power Authority.

He had been instructed Mr. Bonner replied: "I can't tell you. The effect has never been decided. Your opinion of its effect is just as good as mine. We had a receiver in before, with no interference so far as I know, with the day to day operations."

'Some Used Car Firms Act Like Pirates'

VANCOUVER (CP) —

Magistrate Oscar Orr said Wednesday some used car dealers act like pirates.

He said it seemed that misrepresentations, forfeitures of deposits and price-bumping were often carried out without plan, similar to the activities of privateers and buccaners of old.

Steep Price Cut By Japanese Not on Exports

for a major steel producer said today Japanese steel exports to Canada and elsewhere will not be affected by scheduled price cuts July 1 on the domestic market.

Tetsuo Abe, export section chief of Nippon Kokan Steel Tube Co., said export prices will not be cut.

The Japanese steel cut has been prompted by the tight money policy of Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda's government and will benefit Japanese industries only, he said.

Abe said he was bewildered by a report from Vancouver quoting Nippon Kokan as declaring that the price cuts were made to remain competitive in Canada despite tariff increases there.

He said his firm has no branches in Canada; none of its officials is presently there and consequently Nippon Kokan could not have made such a statement in Canada.

"As long as the criminal law isn't broken it seems a few bent ethics don't matter," the magistrate said.

Mr. Orr made the comment in dismissing conspiracy to defraud charges against Maclean Motors and three of its officers—president Earl Maclean, sales manager Stanley G. Janko and general manager Gordon Henderson.

Janko and Maclean, however, were convicted of a second charge of attempting to defraud a customer, Eric G. Robinson of $320. The charge had originally alleged actual fraud but Magistrate Orr in reducing it pointed out that Robinson's money had been returned.

Maclean and Janko were remanded to Friday for sentence.

Police began an investigation of the firm last February after Robinson complained the company bumped the agreed price of car by $100 after he had purchased it and then refused to give him his money back.

Leader of Fight to Ban School Prayer Threatened

ROSLYN HEIGHTS, N.Y. (AP)—The man who led the successful fight against official prayers in New York State public schools said Wednesday he has been vilified and threatened.

Lawrence Roth, head of the group of five parents whose suit brought the controversial U.S. Supreme Court ruling outlawing public school prayers, said he had been bombarded with phone calls and letters.

"The harassing phone calls got so bad last night we finally had to take the receiver off the hook," he said. "They were coming in at the rate of two calls a minute."

He said he and his wife finally decided an organized phone campaign had been started. The calls, he said, went something like this: "Watch out for your children... we're going to blow up your car... don't leave your house, something is going to happen to it... we'll get you."

TAKE PERSONAL NOTE

Letters, starting to pour in since the court ruling Monday, take a more personal note, he said.

Roth says he is not opposed to prayer or to religion even though he does not attend church or a synagogue.

"I would classify myself as a very religious person, but not a church-goer," he added. "I have prayed myself, many times. Not in a beseeching manner, but more in seeking guidance."

KENNEDY ADVOCATES HOME PRAYER

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy said Wednesday the U.S. Supreme Court decision banning official prayers in public schools of the United States gives families an opportunity to do more praying with their children at home. He said he advocates home prayers.

Kennedy said that while many persons may agree with the court edict, and many may disagree with it, it is important that high court decisions, once made, have the support of the people.

Kennedy got into the subject of the Supreme Court's decision on school prayers in response to questions about his views on moves in Congress to amend the U.S. constitution to authorize such prayers.

CHALLENGES OPENED

Wide Implications To Court's Ruling

By AL COLLETTI
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The U.S. Supreme Court's outlawing of a 22-word prayer recited daily in a New York state school is bound to have far-reaching implications on religion in general as practised in public or in state-supported schools across the United States.

The decision Monday declaring the prayer unconstitutional clears the way for some minority groups to challenge the constitutionality of many religious practices commonplace in schools today.

These include recital of The Lord's Prayer, Bible reading, teaching "about religion" and holiday observances such as Christmas and Easter in the Christian faith, Purim and Hanukkah in the Jewish faith.

The prayer the supreme court ruled unconstitutional by a vote of 6 to 1—two justices did not take part—was simple and non-denominational.

It reads: "Almighty God, we acknowledge our dependence upon Thee, and we beg Thy blessing upon us, our parents, our teachers and our country."

It was drafted in 1951 by the Board of Regents, a governmental body which has wide supervisory, legislative and executive powers over public schools in New York state.

The prayer was adopted in 1958 by the school district of New Hyde Park, a Long Island community about 20 miles from New York City.

The prayer was said aloud in the presence of a teacher at the beginning of each school day. Attendance was not compulsory.

The Supreme Court ruled the prayer was "an establishment of religion" by a government body which violates the first amendment of the bill of rights of the U.S. Constitution.

LAW IS PLAIN

The first amendment, ratified in 1791, specifically guarantees freedom of religion. It forbids the congress to pass any law "respecting the establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof."

In 1868, the 14th amendment made freedom of religion applicable to the states, prohibiting them from making or enforcing any law abridging "the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States."

Justice Hugo L. Black, born in Alabama and once denounced as a racist after the disclosure he had belonged to the Ku Klux Klan, delivered the majority opinion.

He was appointed to the Supreme Court in 1937 by the late president Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Evidence Heard In Immigration Forgery Charge

Preliminary hearing of a charge of attempted forgery against Peter Chong, also known as Chong Wing Ming, was held in police court Wednesday.

Magistrate William Ostler reserved his decision until Friday. Chong, through defence counsel Joseph McKenna, elected trial by an assize court.

The Crown alleges that Chong approached three Victoria printers and asked them to make facsimiles of department of citizenship and immigration letterheads to be used to get people out of Communist China and into Hong Kong.

The three printers—John M. Moore, Duncan Macaulay and William Innis—told the court Chong had shown them he got some relations out of China.

Indian Graves, Whalers Vivid Reminders of Past

From material gathered by making a round trip from Vancouver Island in a tug, Times reporter John Manning, in this story, gives impressions of a Pacific Coast industry steeped in tradition and history.

By JOHN MANNING
In its darkness the forest was as a cave. It shrouded the graves, and filtered shafts of sunlight upon totems standing priest-like among the mounds.

Huddled together, these graves lay on the tip of a point in Quatsino Sound; shelter place for the dead of a once-proud race—the Pacific Coast Indian.

So it was that we aboard the tug, on course for Coal Harbor, felt the presence of the spirit embodied in that race: the spirit that took war canoes on raids as far South as San Francisco, that hunted killer whales in the open Pacific.

"You can almost feel it in your bones when you go past here," said Skipper Joe Higgs. "It's the same way in Alert Bay."

It was nightfall when the Lloyd B. Gore entered Coal Harbor with her freight barge, the 250-foot Island Express.

"Good, they've got a guy on the dock to catch the lines," said Higgs. "Reminds me of the time we came sailing into the air force station at Holberg. Threw the heaving line up to some flyboy who tried to tie it up with that . . . might as well've used a bandaid."

With expert ease Higgs brought his mammoth tow alongside.

No Room for Error

"One false move with this thing and we'd take the dock with us," he grinned, signaling a deckhand to take up the slack on the Spring line.

On board the barge were supplies both for the community of Coal Harbor and Western Canada Whaling Company. This is a whaling station recently formed in Coal Harbor by B.C. Packers and a large Japanese firm to provide whale meat for consumption in the Far East.

It is the first whaling station on this coast for two years and employs five ships—two diesel and three steam. Though it was late at night I found Lorne Hume, manager of the station, still at work in his office.

Japanese Gunners

He explained that the Westwhale Five and the Westwhale Six have Japanese captains and gunners, mates and chief engineers. The captains of the other vessels are Norwegians. All have had wide experience in the Antarctic and Bering Sea.

"The Japanese gunners are very good," said Hume. "They like it out in this part of the world. But we had a bit of excitement with one of them the other day when he took a quick wing shot just as a whale went down the side of his ship. Blew part of the rail off."

Walking back to the tug I watched one of the killer ships, the Westwhale Two, enter harbor. She had two whales, a blue and a fin. As we cast off our lines for home the odor of whale blubber passed over the tug like a net full of rotten fish heads.

PROBLEM IN HONG KONG

Few 'Eligible' Refugees

OTTAWA (CP)—The immigration department has bumped into an unusual problem which likely will delay the arrival in Canada of the 100 Hong Kong refugee families the federal government has agreed to bring to Canada.

IN HIDING

The department said Wednesday that its officials in Hong Kong, the Hong Kong welfare department and social services agencies in the British colony are experiencing difficulties in locating eligible refugee families from Communist China.

Canada decided originally to give preference to refugee families who had arrived in Hong Kong since May 1. However, this date now has been changed to Jan. 1 to permit selection among a greater number of families.

It had been hoped that the 100 families would start moving to Canada by air by July 15, to locate eligible families. "We are not finding it easy to locate eligible families," the plan is to fly them here at official said. "However, voluntary government expense on three agencies in Hong Kong are helping us to trace families with the qualification necessary for immigration to Canada."

IN HIDING

An immigration department official said that the refugees are in Hong Kong illegally. Knowing this, they have merged themselves in the colony's teeming population to escape detection and possible deportation.

PACIFIC A-TESTS

Fallout Alarms
U.S. Officials

By HAROLD MORRISON
WASHINGTON (CP)—Public health service employees and their children from the middle western United States are taking part in official tests to determine how much radioactive iodine 131 has been accumulating in their bodies from nuclear fallout.

The public health service said 10 Kansas City residents have been flown to New York for measurements of the iodine 131 in their thyroid glands.

Another 10 from St. Louis will be tested in the near future. Fresh milk contaminated by nuclear fallout is believed to leave iodine 131 deposits in the thyroid glands.

The health service announced the experiments after the Washington Post said in a story that federal officials are concerned that so-called permissible levels of radiation may soon be exceeded or may already have been exceeded in certain middle western U.S. cities.

The city of St. Louis has been particularly concerned about large amounts of short-lived iodine and other radioactivity dumped into that area from U.S. atmospheric nuclear tests in the mid-Pacific. The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission earlier had given public assurance the fallout would be mainly in the equatorial region but apparently wind changes shifted some of the fallout northward.

MUST MAKE DECISION
With the U.S. planning further mid-Pacific tests and possible above-ground tests in the Nevada proving grounds, the U.S. surgeon-general must decide when measures should be taken to protect infants against radioactive iodine contamination fresh milk.

The Post said some scientists have privately recommended that infants in at least four cities—Des Moines, Minneapolis, Wichita and Kansas City—be switched from fresh to canned or powdered milk to protect thyroid glands against possible damage.

AIDE-DE-CAMP to British Columbia lieutenant-governors Hon. Clarence Wallace and Hon. Frank M. Ross, from 1949 to 1956, Lt.-Col. Gordon Park Stirrett, 76, died in Vancouver on Wednesday. Col. Powder Keg
African State
Free Sunday

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—The General Assembly confirmed independence for the African trust territory of Ruanda-Urundi next Sunday and left it to the two countries that will emerge to decide whether to retain Belgian troops.

The two new countries, to be known by native names Rwanda and Burundi, have a population of 5,000,000 in an area twice the size of Maryland, ridden with tribal feuds and jealousies and burdened with poverty.

They will achieve independence two years to the day after the neighboring Belgian Congo became independent to the accompaniment of strife that threatened a big power conflict and touched off the United Nations' most critical operation since the Korean War.

Underlining a three-week debate in the assembly's resumed session was fear that Congolese disorders would erupt unless the 900-man paratroop garrison Belgium has in the area were permitted to remain. A Russian demand that the Belgians be ordered out by July 1 was voted down by the Assembly, 46-24, with 33 abstentions.

ANTICIPATING RECORD ENTRY

A record entry of over 200 boats is expected to enter the annual International Power Boat Association cruiser race from Cabbro Bay to Seattle July 28. Host club for the first time is Royal Victoria Yacht Club, and the course is from the RVC anchorage to Pier 91, Elliott Bay, in Seattle Harbor.

The cruisers, ranging in size from family runabouts to luxury yachts, are expected to rendezvous in Cabbro Bay Friday. Skippers choose their own times to start, aiming to finish at Seattle between 3 and 4 p.m.

Rusk Thaws Deep Chill

LISBON (Reuters) — U.S. State Secretary Rusk left here for home today after talks with Portuguese leaders amid an apparent thaw in the chilly reception he received from the press and public Wednesday.

He boarded the Washington-bound plane after meeting with Premier Antonio Salazar for an hour and 47 minutes and conferring separately with Foreign Minister Alberto Franco Nogueira.

His discussions with the Portuguese leaders were described today as meetings "between friends" by the government newspaper Diario Da Manhã.

The statement was in marked contrast to an editorial in the Lisbon Roman Catholic newspaper A Voz Wednesday asking "what does Rusk want?"

"He cannot ask for friendship from people who feel they have been betrayed," A Voz said.

Rusk opened his talks last night with Nogueira shortly after his arrival from London on a sixth and final stop of a 10-day tour of Europe.

CAUSES DEMONSTRATION

His visit touched off a demonstration Wednesday night by about 20 young Portuguese who gathered outside the U.S. Embassy shouting "go home, go home."

They flourished placards saying "remember Goa" and "we will have Goa back."

The demonstrators were dispersed after about 15 minutes but not before they underlined for Rusk official Portuguese hostility over the lack of American support in Portugal's troubles over the former Portuguese territory of Goa — seized by India last December — and the Portuguese West African territory of Angola.

Rusk's visit came amid continuing Portuguese criticism of American policy supporting independence movements in Africa.

BROWNIES HELP

Diabetics Get Funds For Camp

A Brownie Pack has led generous Victorians in helping to send 35 diabetic children off to summer camp.

The 34th Victoria Brownie Pack responded, along with other donors, to an appeal made by the Victoria Diabetic Association that it was $97.85 short of sending the children to camp.

A tag day held Saturday by the association netted but $498.15 of the $596 needed, whereupon the Brownie Pack responded, putting the camp fund up to $667.02.

"The response has been wonderful," said Mrs. D. L. Brown, president of the Victoria branch of the Diabetic Association. "We are deeply, thankful."

Federal Aid Asked For Causeway

City council this week is expected formally to ask Ottawa for financial assistance towards construction of an outer wall for the Causeway expected to cost about $300,000.

Harbors chairman Ald. A. W. Toone said the Causeway will have to be bolstered before the Inner Harbor can be dredged.

He said Esquimalt-Saanich MP George Chatterton Tuesday was asked to convey the city's request for a federal engineering survey of the proposed project. Victoria MP A. deB. McPhillips was invited to the meeting but did not attend.

PROJECT PRESSED

"We've been pressing for this project for a year and are anxious that it proceed because the floor of the Inner Harbor is in a deplorable state," said Ald. Toone.

Before dredging can be done, the Causeway will have to be protected from increased hydraulic pressures.

deB. McPhillips was invited to "We envisage an outer wall of sheet piling with fill dumped behind it in effect creating a lower-level causeway in front," said Ald. Toone.

"Normally the federal government would be responsible for the dredging anyway but in this case we would also need some financial help for the Causeway."

FATHER BEATS BOY, 3, TO DEATH WITH BELT

CLEVELAND (AP) — Raymond Thompkins, 18-year-old father who, police said, admitted the fatal beating of his three-year-old son with a leather belt for bed wetting, was arrested Wednesday night by homicide detectives. The boy, Jerome Thompkins, was pronounced dead at Mount Sinai Hospital.

B.C. Free of Paralytic Polio

There hasn't been a case of polio in British Columbia since August and September are still to come. But the good record so far raises hopes that the province's Salk vaccine program has been effective in virtually eliminating the disease.

"We're keeping our fingers crossed," said a provincial health official. He said the danger months for polio had been only three cases. At this time last year there had been only three cases.

In 1960 there was a total of 65 cases. Between 80 and 85 per cent of British Columbia's population is protected by vaccine. A new oral vaccine was introduced in the Interior this year and will be available on the Coast in the fall. There have been 23 polio cases in Canada this year, compared with 48 last year and 188 in 1960. More than half this year's total were in Quebec.

SPORTS DIARY

By JIMMY CANNON

A YANKEE FAN POPS OFF

NEW YORK—Right in a gin mill I used to spot Giant and Brooklyn fans. Strangers I mean. A Giant fan was a high-class phoney with a straw hat on him and a wrinkled-up seersucker suit. It was like they were a pack of society creeps who never tasted a salami sandwich in their life.

I eat onions with liver and bacon. But a Giant fan wanted an onion in his martini. They'd never eat it, just let it lay there in the bottom of the glass when they finished the ball.

A Giant fan looked like he only tuned in on opera on the radio when he was home. They were the only bums I ever seen carried books in ball parks. I don't mean school books. They lugged books with them everywhere they went. Get in an argument with a Giant fan and he'd never holler at you, only whisper and smile like some larceny undertaker conning a widow into buying a casket that costs plenty.

Brooklyn fans, they yelled like they was calling a cop. Another thing, they was always on umpires even in a saloon. Any time they lose a ball game, they was swindled out of it by some umpire. They watched the umpires more than they looked at the players. In the summer they never wore a jacket, just green sport shirts.

They must of bought their cigarette loose. Brooklyn fans didn't pull out a pack when they wanted to smoke. They had a butt stuck behind one ear. They'd reach up and get it and light up with a wooden match.

They got to be real cheap. If a guy pulls out a deck of butts chances are someone's going to grub off him. But if you got a lone ace of a cigarette behind your ear, it looks like it's your last one and nobody looks to mooch one.

They was rye drinkers with a beer chaser. No whisky drinker could be a cheap louse all the way. Another thing about a Brooklyn fan, if he threw a bill on the bar he'd let it lay there until it was used up. A Giant fan always put his money back in his pocket after he paid for the martini with the onion in it.

I figured I'd lost them for good. They had to shut their kissers when the Giants and Dodgers took an airship to California. How could they knock the Yankees then? At least, the Yankees didn't run out of nobody.

All of a sudden, in come the Mets. Met fans are worse than Giant and Dodger fans put together. They're a mob of short-beer drinkers. I wouldn't leave my change on the bar if one of them's in the joint.

All Met Fans Talk About Hard Luck

First of all, how could they be Met fans when the Yankees are here all the while? You got to be a little screwy. They brag on the Mets like they could play. I mean no one ever comes up to you and says I love some dame because she's fat, homely and got bandy legs.

They're always talking about the Mets got so much pep. They should have because they don't get tired running the bases. They strike out so much, they never get pooped. If they make a run in the ninth inning, they think they're on a winning streak even when they lose the ball game. All a Met fan talks about is hard luck. They're so bad they put ads in the paper apologizing for what they done.

Take the Yankees this year. It's like they got mobilized in a big train wreck somewhere. Real stars like Mickey Mantle, Whitey Ford and Looey Arroyo were laid up. You figured they'd get drowned in the sewer with a break like that. But they're right near the top and the Mets are in the cellar where they belong.

I tell the Met fans the Mets could win but not in playing baseball. The way they kick balls around they'd be the champion soccer players of the whole world. They don't holler like the Brooklyn fans or whisper like a Giant fan. They order up a short beer for themselves and shrug their shoulders. Then they look at themselves in the mirror behind the bar. They act like guys was going home and hang themselves in the closet.

Some guys says Met fans are just old Dodger and Giant fans. I don't believe them. They're Met fans and strictly loners. At least Brooklyn and Giant fans hung out with one another. But these guys are strictly short-beer single-dunkers. I don't trust nobody who watches himself in a mirror.

A Met fan is strictly against. I told one last week Mantle was back. He said who needs him and keeps on looking at himself in the mirror. Leave them root for the Mets. If that's their kicks, it's a free country. But why don't they stop hating the Yankees? I think they get their glads being haters. They just love misery. That's why they're Met fans. In every neighborhood they got, some kook gets his bangs going to funerals and wakes. That's the same reason somebody becomes a Met fan. They're sadamis who love to be grieved. But what could you expect from a short beer drinker?

Russian Wrestlers Dominate

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — The Russians staged a peaceful invasion of Toledo, Ohio, and carried away the world amateur wrestling championships. Their sweep of the Greco-Roman competition that ended Wednesday night was even more decisive than their free-style victory last week — despite strength by Turkey and Hungary.

Russia scored 40 team points with three firsts, three seconds and a third place, picking up seven medals in eight weight classes. Turkey was closest with 31. The Soviets won five Greco-Roman championships last year.

Next in the team trophy race were: Bulgaria 20½ points, Hungary 16, West Germany 8½, Japan 8, the U.S. 8, United Arab Republic 6, Italy 5, Denmark 5, Yugoslavia 5, Romania 4½, Iran 4, and Switzerland 1½.

Through for Season

Robin Racks Up Fourth Straight For Baltimore

(By ASSOCIATED PRESS)

Nearing the end of the ride in his roller-coaster career, Robin Roberts is on a definite upcurve.

The 35-year-old right-hander, who hit a dip when he was handed his unconditional release by one American League club this season, won his fourth straight for Baltimore Orioles Wednesday night, beating Chicago White Sox 3-1.

Supported by the resurgent home run power of Jim Gentile, Roberts posted his victory with a neat five-hit effort. Gentile broke out of a slump with a pair of homers, driving in all three Baltimore runs.

Roberts, who was purchased by New York Yankees last fall after 14 seasons with Philadelphia Phillies and then released by the Yanks in late April without ever pitching for them, has put together a 4-2 record since joining the Orioles.

Elsewhere, things tightened up among the league front-runners. Paul Foytack and Detroit Tigers trimmed the first-place Cleveland Indians 4-0, the Yankees whipped Minnesota Twins 7-3 and Los Angeles Angels blanked Boston Red Sox 3-0, leaving the Indians one game ahead of the Twins, with the Yanks and Angels two games off the pace. In the AL's other game, Kansas City Athletics scored over Washington Senators, 4-1.

Meanwhile, in the National League, Don Drysdale seems headed for his first 20-victory season now that he seems to have controlled his temper.

Drysdale won No. 13 Wednesday night with a five-hitter that whipped Milwaukee Braves 6-2 but had to maintain his composure during a series of incidents that must have given his new-found control its severest test.

Twice he was hit by pitches and twice had to pitch out of jams created by errors.

The Giants remained on top with their fifth consecutive victory, 6-3, over the Reds. The third-place Pittsburgh Pirates edged New York Mets 6-5 in 10 innings, and the fourth-place St. Louis Cardinals blanked Chicago Cubs twice, 4-0 and 8-0 on shutouts by Larry Jackson, and Ray Sadecki. Houston Colts and Philadelphia Phillies were not scheduled.

DEAD after a long illness is baseball Hall of Fame member Gordon (Mickey) Cochrane, 59. Plagued by poor health in recent years, he sparked Detroit Tigers to pennant victories in 1934 and 1935. Cause of his death was not known.

Home Owner Grants Boost Village Tax 70 Per Cent

CAMPBELL RIVER — Premier Bennett's scheme to increase home owner grants and reduce grants to municipalities will mean a 70 per cent increase in the tax rate here, according to the village commission.

Commissioners will complain to the premier that municipal taxes will have to be raised from 16 to 27.1 mills.

Under the new plan the province will pay taxes on provincial property within municipal boundaries and discontinue the per capita grants.

In the case of Campbell River, the village will lose its customary $58,800 per capita grant, gain $1,800, and have an additional $57,000 to be provided by the ratepayers.

GANGES — Sixty members met for luncheon in the United Church hall here at the first full meeting of Victoria District United Church Presbytery ever held on Salt Spring Island.

Rev. Alex Calder of Oak Bay was presiding officer, and W. M. Moutat gave a brief outline of church history on the Gulf Islands.

CAMPBELL RIVER — A vote will be held late in July on establishment of a Greater Campbell River water board.

Voters' list will be that used for the courts of revision held today for property owners of Quinsam Heights and Willow Point.

GANGES — Annual picnic of St. George's, St. Mark's, and North End Anglican Sunday schools was held at the Scott Road home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Parsons. Races and sports were directed by Franklin Byron, Fred Perry and John Taylor.

NANAIMO — A volunteer search and rescue organization of experienced Vancouver Island and Lower Mainland yachtsmen will be known as Gulf of Georgia Searchmasters. It was announced here on the weekend.

Dr. R. E. McKechnie, of Vancouver, past president of the British Columbia Council of Yacht Clubs, said a small hand-picked group of seasoned skippers will work out of Vancouver, Victoria, New Westminster and Nanaimo.

They will fly a distinctive pennant.

SATURNA ISLAND — The traditional Saturna Island lamb barbecue will be held as usual this year Sunday, July 1, with its fiesta and entertainment starting at 11 a.m. and the barbecue at 2:30 p.m.

Sponsors made it clear this week that while Monday, July 2, is the Dominion Day holiday, the barbecue is set for Sunday.

The barbecue site, which can be reached only by boat, is on the beach immediately north of Croker Point, on Plumper Sound. The sound separates Saturna Island on the east and the Pender Islands to the west.

Small craft can be pulled up on the beach, while larger vessels find plenty of room for anchoring offshore.

COURTENAY — Logging companies would be more sympathetic to the sportsman's access problems if it weren't for the high property damage and theft losses when the public is granted admission.

George Bergsma, Courtenay Fish and Game Club secretary, said co-operation between Comox Logging Company and the club is good but would be better if it wasn't for an irresponsible element among hunters and fishermen.

The club is seeking year-round access to Wolf Lake, 20 miles from here.

Mr. Bergsma said a request to Comox Logging was rejected because application must be made through the parent company, Crown Zellerbach Canada Limited.

The request called for removal of the lock on the Wolf Lake gate and installation of a new gate past the lake to keep the public from the logging areas. The present gate could still be locked during periods of high fire hazard.

LOWER DRINKING AGE 'COURAGEOUS STEP'

NEW YORK (UPI)—Anthropologist Margaret Mead said Wednesday states which keep the minimum drinking age at 21 "will undermine the moral fibre of the country exactly as prohibition did."

Miss Mead defended New York State's 18-year minimum, under attack from New Jersey's Gov. Richard J. Hughes and representatives of other states bordering New York.

She said New York's drinking law was "a courageous step forward in an unpopular era." She said many "young adults" between the ages of 18 and 21 are married, own their own homes and have served in the armed forces.

Miss Mead said the 21-year minimum forced "responsible young adults" to drink illegally.

POLICE COMMISSION NOTES

Officers Not Used On Political Basis

City police commission Wednesday denied its officers were politically biased or acted improperly during special duties at an election rally last month.

W. A. Scott wrote the commission complaining that a special duty constable ejected hecklers at Prime Minister Diefenbaker's public rally here.

In answer to several of his questions, the police commission decided to reply that special duty officers were entitled to wear their uniforms at the meeting, were not paid by the taxpayers for this special duty, were not picked because of political bias and their actions were aimed at maintaining law and order.

Mr. Smith wrote that Saanich and Oak Bay departments provided a court officer to maintain dignity at their sessions, but not the city.

Chief Blackstock replied that Vancouver police department did not staff the Family Court there and he objected to "tossing up another man just to hear family squabbles." He said an officer could be dispatched to the court "in a couple of minutes" in case of trouble.

Commission approved a Victoria Police Mutual Benefit Association request for the annual policemen's ball Nov. 2.

Soviet Subs New Defence Problem

OTTAWA (CP)—The existence of Russian missile-launching submarines means a capability of launching nuclear missiles against North America's coastlines. They estimate their present maximum firing range at 350 miles with the distinct possibility of far greater range before long.

They emphasized that this doesn't make North American air defence command obsolete because the air threat to this continent will continue.

But whereas the ballistic missile warning system and distant early warning radar line in the Canadian Arctic, Alaska and Greenland could alert North America to rocket or bomber attack, a missile bombardment by submarine could come without warning.

This is one reason why Gen. Laurence S. Kuter, chief of NORAD, recently called for extension of the ballistic missile warning system.

It is also why the defence departments of Canada and the United States are pressing research into an underwater ocean surveillance system.

Y's Men Work World Wide

Y's men's clubs are now serving charitable causes in 40 different countries of the world, says Ken Somanader, visiting here from Colombo, Ceylon.

"We have five clubs in Ceylon," Mr. Somanader said, "and they all distribute used clothing to hospitals and needy families."

"We also operate a recreation program for 80 slum children."

Now on a world tour sponsored by the Ys Men's clubs of 40 countries, Mr. Somanader is staying with James Clark of the 32-member Victoria club.

AT BANFF SESSION

Just recently he was one of 1,100 delegates attending a world convention of Ys Men's clubs at Banff, Alta.

"It was a great experience," he said. "We exchanged views and opinions on the techniques and methods of serving our communities in many parts of the world."

"Now I am looking forward to meeting Ys Men in different areas of the United States."

In Ceylon six months ago, Mr. Somanader entertained James Clark and Stanley Kornelson of Victoria Ys Men's Club.

He attended a world conference of clubs in Paris in 1955 and Ghana in 1960.

"It's a good way of seeing the world and finding out what people of different nationalities are thinking."

Mr. Somanader was leaving for Seattle this afternoon.

ARTIST 'HITS' MASTERPIECE

LONDON (Reuters) — Franz Weng, 56-year-old German artist, was remanded in custody today on a charge of maliciously damaging a Leonardo Da Vinci drawing in the National Gallery.

Weng was arrested Wednesday after allegedly throwing a bottle of ink at the drawing, which shows the Madonna and Child with St. John the Baptist.

You Can't Keep 'em Down on Farm

OTTAWA (IP) — The trend toward urban living in Canada is shown in a compilation of 1961 census figures by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

Counting every centre of 1,000 persons or more as an urban area, the bureau found that 69.6 per cent of the country's population was urban. In 1956 the percentage was 66.5.

At the same time, the bureau reported a sharp drop in the number of persons on rural farms—down to 10.8 per cent from 16.4—but it explained that a big part of this decline was due to a different definition of the number of farms declined by 94,000 under the census figures, but the bureau said about 41,000 of these were taken off the list because of the change in definition.

Of Canada's population of 18,238,247 at last June, 12,700,390 lived in urban areas. Of the 5,537,857 rural dwellers, 2,072,785 lived on farms and 3,465,072 were classed as "rural-non-farm."

In 1956 a farm was defined as a holding of three acres or more. Last year it was changed to one or more acres with agriculture produce valued at $50.

A breakdown of urban population by provinces, with rural figures in brackets:

Newfoundland 232,020 (225,833), Prince Edward Island 33,909 (70,720), Nova Scotia 400,512 (336,495), New Brunswick 278,013 (319,923), Quebec 3,906,404 (1,332,807), Ontario 4,823,529 (1,412,563), Manitoba 588,807 (332,879), Saskatchewan 398,091 (527,090), Alberta 843,211 (488,733), British Columbia 1,181,925 (447,157), Yukon 5,031 (9,597), Northwest Territories 8,938 (14,060).

... HERE AND THERE

With NORMAN CRIBBENS

A cheery white-haired little man, W. H. Turner, is thinking of pulling up his roots at Kingston-on-Thames, England, and moving to Victoria—at 30.

Visiting here after an absence of 35 years, he said: "England is getting too crowded for comfort. Victoria is just right—not too small and quite cosmopolitan. In many ways it's like the England I knew 50 years ago."

A retired advertising man, Mr. Turner says standards in London have deteriorated over the past decade. "We used to have first-rate artists and writers and they achieved subtle effect by understatement and caricature. Now much of our advertising is blatant and vulgar."

Not every one agrees with Rev. Dr. A. C. Bouquet that Victoria University should be a "centre of creative thought... not just a glorified technical school."

"I am tired of English people coming over here and telling us we should model our institutions on Oxford and Cambridge," writes R. D. Brooke, Esquimalt. "I see nothing wrong in teaching practical subjects at university."

"There is no stigma in being a plumber or a brick-layer—except perhaps in jolly old England."

Thirty residents of Long Beach, California, have booked seats for next Monday's opening night of the Jerry Gossie Smile Show at Langham Court Theatre.

And 81 more Long Beachers have booked for the night of Aug. 17.

It seems there is a sudden demand for language records in the phonograph section of Victoria Public Library.

"We have none at present," one of the staff said. Surprisingly, light music is not the most in demand. Borrowers are clamoring for serious string and piano music and symphonies.

Records of Shakespeare's plays and poetry readings are also popular.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

A meeting of the Prayer for Israel Group will be held on Monday in the prayer room of the Central Baptist Church at 7:45 p.m.

The Victoria Horticultural Society will meet on Tuesday in the City Hall at 7:30 p.m. Miss Doris Page will talk on confifers, their use in the garden, types for certain localities, and methods of propagation.

Two reports on amalgamation of Greater Victoria municipalities are being studied by a special Chamber of Commerce sub-committee. The 1956 report by the Citizens' Research Institute and the Deutscher report of 1958.

When members of the group have completed their individual studies of the reports, a formal meeting of the sub-committee, headed by Richard J. Bower, will begin the job of drawing up recommendations to be presented to the full chamber.

Centennial Midsummer Night Dance of the Scandinavian Brotherhood will be held Saturday at 8:30 at the Brentwood Community Hall. There will be entertainment and refreshments.

Winners of the tournament conducted by the Victoria Duplicate Bridge Club were: Bill Simpson-Balke, Douglas Tuck, Joan Smith and Harry Brawn.

Gladys Soulsby, past president of the Natural History Society, will guide a tour through Beacon Hill Park Sunday afternoon after the band concert, and every Sunday afternoon following during the summer.

Tour will take about half an hour, and will start at approximately 4:30.

Former mayor Percy Scarrath will be presented with mementoes from the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities of which he was president for part of last year until leaving civic politics.

The presentation will be made by Mayor R. B. Wilson, who received the gifts on Mr. Scarrath's behalf at a recent CPMM convention in Winnipeg.

The B government today received 300 bids for oil and natural gas rights on 87 parcels of crown land in the north.

Exploration and drilling rights are up for auction at Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan's office.

Results of the sale were to be announced this afternoon. "It looks like a very good sale," said Mr. Kiernan this morning.

Corporal Thomas Hadfield of Parksville, has postponed an inquiry into the drowning Tuesday near Northwest Bay of Richard Young, 22, of Victoria.

The young man, an employee of T. Eaton Co., was sailing with a friend, Gordon Knox, when their Lightning capsized.

Mr. Young had attempted to swim to shore, but failed. His body was picked up later by the crew of a tugboat.

Police said the inquiry will be held when all information required by the coroner is in hand.

The funeral will be held at McCall's Friday at 3:30 p.m. Interment will be at Royal Oak.

MAYBE THEIR ONLY CHANCE IN 'DOG'S LIFE'

'Just Mutts' Get Class in Show

All mutts, regardless of pedigree or breeding, will have perhaps the only chance in their lives to take part in a real dog show at the official opening of Kinsmen Gorge Park on Saturday.

The park, which has been in use since the start of good weather at the end of May, will be opened officially with three days of special functions. Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

PRIZES GALORE

The off-beat dog show, which begins at 10 a.m. the first day, will give prizes for the one with the longest ears, with the shortest tail, the largest, the smallest, the best dressed, and the grand champion of the show. It is sponsored by Dr. Ballard's Pet Foods.

Other events on Saturday include a treasure hunt for children under 13 for $100 in prizes at 1:30 p.m.; an exhibition by Victoria Judo Club at 2:30; pony rides for children, and hamburgers and corn-on-the-cob all day.

On Sunday there will be a water skiing exhibition by Victoria Ski Club at 2:30, and a concert by Victoria Boys' Band at 2:30.

Monday's events will include a square dance exhibition and band concert at 2 p.m.

MANY FACILITIES

The park, which was started in 1956, is maintained by Esquimalt municipality and sponsored by Victoria Kinsmen. It contains picnic areas and play facilities for children, including salt water swimming pools which have just been reconstructed.

At present under construction to be ready in July are the Japanese Tea Gardens.

The park will stay open until the end of September, weather permitting.

LOCAL TORY MPs DIFFER ON AUSTERITY

Two local Conservative members of Parliament expressed conflicting views today on the value of Prime Minister Diefenbaker's new austerity program.

Victoria MP A. DeB. McPhillips said some of the new moves should be permanent.

Esquimalt-Saanich MP George Chatterton said he hopes they will be temporary only.

Mr. McPhillips also predicted local works projects under review will not all be scrapped.

He said he is in favor of a permanent cure on the value of goods Canadian visitors to the U.S. may buy.

LUXURY CARS HIT

Mr. McPhillips said he is also in favor of tariff curbs on imported automobiles.

"They have been reaping a harvest for years," he said.

Now that import prices have been forced up, he said he hopes Canadian manufacturers will produce compact cars in mass quantities at lower prices.

Mr. Chatterton said he does not approve of "the habit of Canadians—particularly young people—of buying luxury goods in the U.S."

Mr. Chatterton said he does not think the austerity measures will be harmful to Canada's economy—at home or abroad—on a short term basis.

HOPES FOR EARLY END

"I certainly hope the present measures will be maintained only for the length of time considered necessary. I would hope this period will be only a temporary one."

"All western nations should aim at a gradual reduction in trade barriers."

"I don't think the present international situation will affect the internal economy—although over a long period it would."

Mr. McPhillips pooh-poohed reports that local works projects will be scrapped in the big austerity drive.

Because they are under review by the treasury board doesn't mean they will be thrown out, he said.

"They are looking at things always—half a dozen times before a project gets the green light."

FRIGATE DELAY

Mr. McPhillips said work on three of eight new $40,000,000 frigates promised for the coast next year "could be delayed."

But contract for two new weather ships are still expected "any day."

A marine service station for Victoria's harbor "is certainly not going to be scrapped—we have got to have it," he said.

It would be essential to service new ships which will be based here—including two new Coast Guard cutters and a fisheries patrol vessel.

Petersen Fears For $5 Million Fitness Program

Education Minister Leslie Peterson said today he fears Ottawa's new austerity drive will kill a national $5,000,000 physical fitness program.

The B.C. government expected to get $240,000 of the $5,000,000 under a new federal-provincial agreement.

"We fear since the agreement hasn't been signed that we may lose it," said Mr. Peterson.

He said he has written several times to Health Minister J. Walter Monteiht asking for details on the proposed agreement for spending the grant.

"I would be very disappointed if this grant does not come through," he said.

"We have already employed some staff and an advisory committee is making a survey to see how the money can best be spent."

Father 'Little Use' To Family

A father of 11 was sentenced to a total of 25 days in jail by Magistrate William Ostler today for falsifying unemployment insurance claims.

Gordon V. Eaton, enforcement officer for the Unemployment Insurance Commission, told the court last week that Wilfred Hollinger, 2813 Leigh Road, on five occasions between Jan. 15 and Feb. 5, this year, failed to declare his earnings on insurance claims.

As a result, he received $150 in benefits, $61 more than he was entitled to if he had declared all his earnings.

"You have been dependent on welfare agencies for many years—you seem to work when you feel like work," the magistrate told Hollinger today.

"You really aren't much use to your family at all—the public has been supporting your family. You are biting the hand that feeds you," he said.

Island Man Accidentally Shoots Self

Vincent Alek, a 25-year-old Indian fisherman, suffered a shoulder wound in a shooting accident Wednesday evening on Koksilah Indian Reserve, near Duncan.

He was rushed to King's Daughters' Hospital in Duncan. Hospital officials said today his condition was satisfactory.

According to reports Mrs. Gloria George, Mission Road, Koksilah, Alek's sister-in-law, called RCMP. Apparently Alek had taken a .22 rifle to a nearby creek. He told police he was about to clean it when it fired.

The small-calibre bullet entered his shoulder a few inches above his heart.

Last Tribute Paid City's Mr. Theatre

Theatre managers, Freemasons and Rotarians from Vancouver and Victoria were among the more than 200 people attending a funeral service in Hayward's Chapel today for Clifford Denham, 83, manager of the Royal Theatre since it opened here in 1913.

Mr. Denham had so many friends that every seat in the cream-walled, flower-banked chapel was taken—a number came from the mainland to attend.

At the request of his family Psalm 23 "The Lord Is My Shepherd" was sung during the service, which was followed by interment at Royal Oak cemetery.

Members of St. Andrew's Lodge No. 49, AF and AM, Victoria Rotary Club and the Silver Threads organization here.

Honorary pallbearers were George I. Warren (former chief of Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau), Dr. Frank M. Bryant, Maynard Joiner, Alex Stralith, S. Evans and J. Gow.

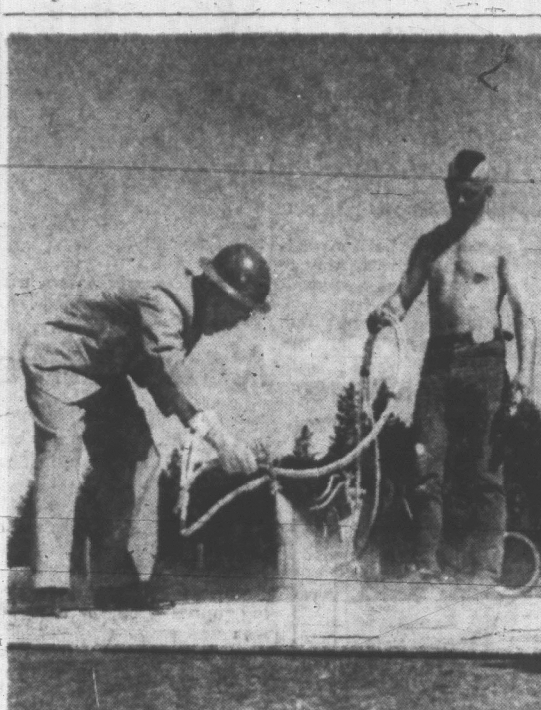

The active pallbearers were Martin Cave, Alec Reid, W. More, J. Armstrong, Frank Skillings and T. Woolston.

FRIDAY MEETINGS

COURT ACTION THREATENED

'Good Deed' Sours For City Fathers

'Hut Bylaw' For Bowlers Said Illegal

City council today warned it may face court action if it doesn't act within a week to remove an old army hut from the posh downtown tourist zone.

Alan Cox, lawyer for Crystal Court Motel on Belleville, said a June 14 building bylaw amendment permitting the hut appeared "clearly illegal" and might result in a court action to quash it.

The attack centred on a wooden hut which the city is helping erect behind the Crystal garden to assist the Canadian Pacific Lawn Bowling Association. The association recently was turned out of its club rooms in the Crystal Garden by the CPR.

PAYING HALF

City council agreed to pay half—up to $1500 for establishing the building on city property to provide the organization with a clubhouse beside the bowling greens.

The structure violated the city's own building bylaw which required a masonry building in No. 1 fire limits until June 14 when the city passed an amendment exempting "clubhouses, pavilions, tool sheds and like structures" on certain city property.

Mr. Cox said no matter what was done to dress up the "dilapidated" army hut, it would be blot on the area and harm property values of substantial taxpayers who were forced to live up to rigid building standards set by the city.

He said the June 14 amendment, "which attempts to justify this action... at first glance appears to be clearly illegal."

QUASH BYLAW

"We expect that if something is not done to remove this structure at once, our client will give us instructions to apply to quash the bylaw."

Mr. Cox said the frame building could not be justified in a high class area, except on purely compassionate grounds.

"We think it would be a shame if it were necessary for a substantial taxpayer to incur the expense of taking the city to court to make it live up to the spirit of its own regulations."

"We would appreciate some indication within the next week of council's decision, as it will be necessary for us to commence proceedings by the end of next week."

Burglar Praised But Sent to Jail

A man who broke into the Glenshiel Hotel last week and then almost immediately reported it to police was today sentenced to a year in prison.

"It would be mistaken leniency to give you too light a sentence," Magistrate William Ostler told Leonard Anderson, who had pleaded guilty to breaking and entering and theft.

Anderson climbed in through a window of the hotel in the early hours of June 20, but fled when the occupant of the room, an elderly lady, started to scream. He telephoned police a few minutes later, told them what he had done and said he was afraid the old lady might suffer a heart attack.

"Your concern over your victim was commendable," Magistrate Ostler said today. "but it isn't the first time you have done this."

"It's a sad thing that you have spent most of your life as an alcoholic. It would be mistaken leniency to give you a light sentence—there must be a sufficient period for you to come under prison discipline and other good influences," he said.

OMISSION DENIED

Air Force Included In 'Victoria Story'

Victoria Centennial Celebration Society today denied an earlier report that the air force is to be left out of the Victoria Story pageant to be staged in Athletic Park July 28 to Aug. 4.

Dudley Remus, scrip writer and director of the pageant, said that even as the story appeared in another paper that Victoria's air force history was to be omitted, he and other committee members were conducting research into the role of all three armed services.

He denied that any member of the society had said "Victoria doesn't seem to have had any air force in its past."

GOERING HIS VICTIM

Publisher Gray Campbell, an ex-RCAF man himself, is working through the Air Force Officers' Association of Vancouver Island for material for the pageant.

Not only is Mr. Remus acquainted with the more well-known RCAF and RAF fliers, which the city has produced, but he has even "discovered" that the man who shot down future Nazi leader Hermann Goering in 1917 lives right here in Victoria.

Not many natives of the city know that Emmerson Smith, 2030 MacNeil, manager of McQuade's Ship Chandlery, shot down the then ace German pilot, was himself shot down by the leading First World War ace Baron Manfred von Richthofen, and later was interrogated by an enraged Goering himself.

It is intended to incorporate battle scenes from both world wars in the pageant. Rehearsals are being held at 7:30 in Victoria High School all this week, with final indoor rehearsal to be at 1:30 p.m. Saturday.

A 15 per cent boost in federal tax on imported liquor will apply to the price paid by the B.C. government, not the retail price, it was learned today.

Liquor Control Board Chairman Col. Donald McGugan said he has been informed the new surcharge will be levied on the LCB invoice price, which is reported to be $3 for a bottle of Scotch.

This strengthens hope that the B.C. retail price, boosted 25 per cent Monday, will be cut back.

An extra 10 per cent increase, made by the B.C. government to allow for devaluation of Canada's dollar.

If this, too, were applied to the invoice price, the new cost in liquor stores of a standard bottle of Scotch would be $6.54 including sales tax.

Monday's retail price hike put it up to $7.14.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. Could you please tell me which tide table should be used for the Chatham Island-Discovery Island area off Ten Mile Point? F.K.W.

A. Marine authorities say the Victoria Harbor tide table is closest reference for Ten Mile Point, as there is no special table for the area there should be no more than 10 or 15 minutes difference.

Photography Is Simple With Compact Camera

By Penny Saver

A camera in the hand is worth many memories when you return from your dream trip to Europe. And if the camera is the one Penny fell in love with the other day, it will almost fit in your hand, it is so compact.

Not only is the camera small, 4 1/2 x 1 1/2 inches, but it is so simple to operate that Penny was ashamed to admit that she had ever been afraid of being on the taking end of a camera.

Film does not have to be threaded on or rewound. It comes in special drop-in cartridge. When it drops in, the counter sets itself and continues to work automatically so you can't take double exposures as Penny is so fond of doing. Speed of film is stated on box and is very easy to set on camera. There is also a weather dial with symbols for various light conditions.

Camera comes in smart zippered case and has a wrist handle so that despite its size it cannot easily be lost. Price is not overwhelming—it sets for only $21.95.

Roll of film with 20 exposures is $2.98 for colored slides, $3.29 for black and white pictures. Mailing bag is supplied with each roll of film and price includes processing if film is sent to manufacturer's laboratory.

Flash attachment for camera is available for $6.95. It uses smallest possible flash bulbs and 15-volt battery. Test light insures that flash is always working when you take your picture.

Projector which is almost as portable as the camera is priced at $39.95, making colored slides a reasonable way to remember your trip. It also comes in a zippered case about 10x5x3 inches, with carrying handle.

Take your vacation pictures with this camera. Call Penny at 382-3131 for name of store where you may buy one.

CONFIDENTIALLY YOURS

—by Byrne Hope Sanders

TORONTO, June 28th—Why wish you were there... when you could be? If you are hesitating about the cost of that "dream" vacation, there's good news for you at the BANK OF MONTREAL. The B of M Family Finance Plan can supply the ready cash to take the worry out of your vacation plans.

A low-cost, life-insured FFP loan is the perfect way to get the things you want now and pay for them later by convenient monthly instalments suited to your pocketbook. So don't hesitate a minute—see the people at your neighbourhood B of M branch, and you'll be on your way come vacation time.

A DELICIOUS DISH FOR A RAINY SUMMER DAY... in fact, good all year 'round!... piping hot German Kraut made with the best-tasting sauerkraut I know... LIBBY'S SAUER KRAUT. Here's how:

1 28-oz. can Libby's Sauerkraut, 2 tbsp. bacon fat or butter, 2 cups boiling water, 1 tsp. caraway seeds, 1 large potato, 1 piece sauerkraut, water, bacon fat and caraway seeds in saucepan. Boil rapidly until most of the water is evaporated. Peel and grate potato and add to sauerkraut. Cover and simmer gently until potato is cooked, 6 servings.

Easy to cook, wonderfully versatile, Libby's Sauerkraut is low in cost and high in appetite appeal... no wonder 9 out of 10 cans of sauerkraut sold in Canada come from Libby's modern kitchens!

RIGHT AT YOUR FINGERTIPS!... I'll wager that right now, handy on your spice shelf, you have one of the world's greatest condiments... dry mustard. With a history as ancient as that of salt and pepper, dry mustard is even more versatile. There's hardly a food you've tasted that can't be made better by a dash of mustard. Just remember, the key word is "dash," not "disguise" in dash! So don't be a sissy... season! I always use COLMAN'S DRY MUSTARD... full strength and unsurpassed in quality, you'll find that recipes calling for dry mustard are usually based on the uniform strength of Colman's. I must confess that I have recently been doing a good deal of "cooking research" on dry mustard and in my next column I'll have some exciting ideas which YOU can use to very real advantage!

Buy new Wish-Bone Calorie Count French Style and Italian Dressings next time you shop.

EVEN ON THE HOTTEST "DOG DAYS" of summer, you'll feel much less like "barking" after the soothing luxury of a CALGON BOUQUET bath, an inexpensive luxury, I might add! You see, Calgon Bouquet is the delightful bath powder that makes your bath-water silky-soft... and both water and soap rinse away cleanly... no sticky feeling... no bathtub "ring". So take my tip... when the heat threatens to get you down, do try the morale-booster of a bath-scented and conditioned with Calgon Bouquet. You'll feel fresh-as-a-daisy and you'll look that way, too.

DEAR ABBY...

Second Childhood!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 69 years old and have been married to the same selfish man for 44 years. I worked for 36 years to help out. He is 72 and thinks he is 45. Every time I look for him he is across the alley fixing something for a 40-year-old woman who has a husband her own age to fix something if it gets broken. For Mother's Day he gave her six roses he bought in a store and a picture of HIMSELF in his uniform from World War One. He gave me a card which said, "TO MY MOTHER." I am not his mother! What do you make of this?

HAVING TROUBLE DEAR ABBY: Your husband seems to be enjoying his second childhood more than his first. Nothing serious can come of it. Don't let the old goat know you're jealous, or he won't be able to get his hat on.

DEAR ABBY: I will be 13 soon and am going to have a birthday party. My mother says I can have only 36 kids. I have six cousins my age. I like 3 of them, and 3 of them I don't care for too much. If I have all my cousins I will be able to have only 30 classmates. Would it be all right if I invited the 3 cousins I like and took their ice cream and birthday cake to the other 3 after the party?

BIRTHDAY GIRL DEAR GIRL: Invite ALL your cousins. Taking ice cream and birthday cake to uninited cousins would be a new low in public relations with one's relations.

CONFIDENTIAL TO RECIPE COLLECTORS: A reader sent me her treasured recipe for old-fashioned butter-scotch pudding (can be used as pie filling, too)—handed down from four generations. It's delicious and it's yours for a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

How's the world treating you? For a personal unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to ABBY, care of this newspaper.

For Abby's booklet, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding," send 50c to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Commercial Powdered Butter Now Produced In Australia

MELBOURNE (Reuters) — A scientist working for the Australian government has produced what he believes is the world's first powdered butter.

Though it can't be spread on bread, the powdered butter can be used for cooking in any recipe that calls for solid butter and should prove a boon to housewives in hot climates and, because it can be so easily stored, to commercial bakers, candy-makers and food processors.

The powdered butter was developed by Dr. Paul Hansen, a Danish-born scientist who came to Australia in 1960. It has been used in the baking of 212 different kinds of cakes.

In addition to the fact that it can be stored indefinitely without refrigeration, powdered butter is much more easily

Wants Sweepstakes

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mrs. Helen Gornien has never bought a sweepstake ticket. But the 53-year-old Vancouver housewife is heading what now is a one-woman drive in B.C. to get lotteries legalized in Canada. She said today she expects to find thousands of supporters in the next few months. She is asking friends, acquaintances, clubs — any one over 21 years of age — to sign petitions to have a government-controlled sweep set up in Canada.

Mrs. Gornien said her drive stems from a similar drive in Alberta where Mrs. Mary English, a Calgary grandmother, has started what is called "Operation Sweepstake."

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Being Too Thin Is Health Hazard, Too... Try Gaining

Extreme thinness is a handicap to a woman. It imposes soft feminine curves on her figure. It can give her hollow cheeks and rob her face of bloom. Those of us who must fight the bulge may envy our underweight friends and fail to understand that they are just as anxious to gain pounds as we are to lose them.

Statistics show that we have a much better chance for a vital long life if we are below, rather than above, the average weight for our height. However, severe underweight can have its health penalties, too.

The nerves are not so well insulated and the stomach and other internal organs may drop without sufficient supporting fat.

This can lead to fatigue, strains, lack of appetite, constipation and other unpleasant conditions. So if a woman is very thin, she should try to gain a few pounds because of her health as well as for curves.

I know of a woman who had been trying to gain for years without any success. She was very thin and very nervous. It was finally discovered that her stomach had dropped to such an extent that it crowded everything else. Her doctor prescribed a support, a special corset made to order for her. Within six months she had gained a number of pounds. Years later she is in perfect health and is the correct weight.

Even if you do not have such an extreme condition, you may want to add a curve or two here or there. You can do this by building up underlying muscles.

Here is a good exercise for leg contour. Stand with your left side toward a chair and place your left hand on the top of the chair for balance. Rise high on the left toe as you swing your right leg forward with a stiff knee. Lower left heel to the floor and return right leg to starting position. Continue. Rise as high as you can on your toe. When you are tired, turn your right side toward a chair, place your right hand on top of the chair, rise high on your right toe as you swing your left leg forward. Lower heel, return leg and continue. This builds the calf muscles.

If you would like to have my leaflet, "Why Not Take Steps Toward Lovely Legs," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 13 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Rolls Rise In Refrigerator

Refrigerator rolls and breads rank among the easiest yeast treats to make. Most refrigerator doughs require no kneading, and no rising before they are chilled. They rise the first time in the refrigerator where they need no watching or time-checking. To store properly, place the dough in a large bowl, grease the top and cover it completely with foil or waxed paper, pressing the cover right down on the dough. As it rises, occasionally adjust the edges of the cover, if necessary, so that the dough is not exposed to air at any time; this prevents drying out. Temperature of the refrigerator should be from 40 to 45 degrees for best keeping.

In Maturity, Aim for Elegance

If you are middle-aged, there are certain things you should say goodbye to without regret (if, indeed, you were ever acquainted with them). Among them: two-piece bathing suits; lots of colored eye shadow; giggling; clothes that are snugly fitted; teefery heels; silver blonde hair coloring; bright red in anything but accessories and an envy of those younger than yourself.

What should you strive for? An elegant look. The clothes you own should bear the quiet mark of quality. Better a few really good things than many of indifferent make. Your swimsuits should be one-piece and well-fitted. Your hair coloring may not be the color of your youth but it should be natural-looking.

Wear slender shoes with shaped heels but stick to a two-inch height. Stay away from the colors that are hard to wear and look, instead, for the softer shades that are pure flattery to a mature skin. By now, you should own a few pieces of really good jewelry; wear these pieces with pride.

Get busy. Try out a new hairdo. Check over your clothes to see if they need pressing or mending. Chances are, there's a whole closetful to take care of. Bake a cake, go for a walk or a swim but don't sit and brood.

Miss Ferguson Honored By Board, Staff

Miss Beryl Ferguson, who recently retired after 42 years on staff at Royal Jubilee Hospital, was honor guest last Monday when members of the hospital board entertained at a coffee party in the nurses' lounge.

Presiding at the coffee table was Mrs. W. A. Trenholme, board member, and Mrs. G. H. Grant.

Presentations were made to Miss Ferguson by Mr. Joseph Casey, president of the board of directors, and by Dr. G. H. Grant, for the medical staff.

Miss Ferguson held the position of chief records librarian when she retired.

Miss Ferguson

Prior to her retirement, associates of Miss Ferguson on the hospital staff entertained in her honor at the tea hour in the Harmony Room at the hospital.

Capacity Crowd Attends Hospital Garden Party

Capricious breezes fluttered bunting and balloons that transformed the grounds of the Gorge Road Hospital, Wednesday afternoon, for the annual garden party of the hospital's auxiliary.

A capacity crowd attended, had fun and raised $1,130.89 for the auxiliary's work.

The affair was opened by Mrs. R. B. Wilson, wife of Victoria's mayor. Guests were received by Mrs. C. C. Warren and Mrs. E. R. Owen, general convener.

Giving an extra fillip to the afternoon's activity was a program of dancing by pupils of Katherine Costain's School of Dancing.

Tables in the auditorium were continually occupied as guests enjoyed tea convened by Mrs. C. Douglas, Mrs. H. Jackson and Mrs. A. Peddesen. Serviteurs were Mrs. J. Cook, Mrs. R. S. Vickers, Mrs. R. B. Simm, Mrs. A. Mawer, Mrs. D. Gillingham, Mrs. R. F. Whellams and members of the Royal Purple Lodge.

Mrs. Mawer arranged nosegays of summer flowers that centred the tables. Mrs. P. J. Woolley handled tea tickets and Mrs. G. F. Hilliard music and publicity. Mrs. W. W. McGregor was in charge of refreshments.

Stall conveners were: Aprons, Mrs. J. W. English and Mrs. F. Harvey; miscellaneous sewing and jewelry, Mrs. J. C. Goullie; oriental stall, Mrs. J. A. Mawer and Mrs. R. Rain; toys, Mrs. G. Callan; white elephant and books, Mrs. P. Jackson and Mrs. R.

Garden Party Flower Stall Gay Feature

It seemed that the choicest blooms from scores of gardens had been used for the flower stall that provided a feast of color at garden tea and fashion show staged by the Women's Auxiliary to the Cerebral Palsy Clinic, Wednesday afternoon, in the spacious grounds of the Beach Drive home of Capt. David Groos, RCN (Rtd.) and Mrs. Groos. Stall was in charge of Mrs. C. Wallace, Mrs. A. Broadfoot and Mrs. H. W. Pope.

Guests were greeted by president, Mrs. W. M. Martin and general convener, Mrs. W. Pistell.

Arrangements of pansies and roses, set in moss in tiny silver baskets, centred the tea tables. Teen-aged serviteurs from the Spade Club of Mount Douglas High School were the Misses Heather Baker, Francis Cox, Linda Trotter, Heike Van Leusden, Marg Rideout and Barbara Hebden. Tea committee members were Mrs. C. Spring, Mrs. G. Findlay, Mrs. R. Shields, Mrs. F. George, Mrs. R. Willett and Miss D. Sprinkling.

Miss Canada, Nina Holden, headed the attractive models that displayed summer clothes from Raymar Fashions that emphasized present trend to easy-to-care-for fabrics. Other models were Jeannette Munson, Florence Waiter, Lydia Mawson, Marion Porteus and Gail Rawnsley. Commentator was Helen Belmes.

Mrs. J. M. Pomeroy and Mrs. D. Pomeroy convened home cooking stall. Other conveners were: White elephant, Mrs. H. James; doll raffle, Mrs. M. Brimbridge; fish pond, Mrs. J. Feeley; receipts, Mrs. D. B. Ascott and publicity, Mrs. L. F. Dunn.

Sum of $175 was realized.

PLEBISCITE URGED IN U.K. ON ECM ENTRY

LONDON (Reuters)—The British people should be allowed to decide via a referendum whether they want to enter the European Common Market, Maurice Petherick, chairman of the Commonwealth Industries Association, suggested Wednesday night.

The association was founded in 1926 to foster Commonwealth trade.

Petherick said a general election would not be suitable since the Common Market issue would be confused or obscured by a host of other issues.

Blue-Toned Gown Worn by Bride

A floor-length gown of iridescent organza in soft blue shade was chosen by Edna Doreen Harvey for her marriage to Henry Stephen Rosenthal in Centennial United Church. Fitted bodice featured a round neckline and lily point sleeves. Full hooped skirt was slightly en train. Finger-tip veil in blue tone was held by a rhinestone tiara. Red roses and orange blossom were in the cascade bouquet. Jewelry was a rhinestone necklace and earrings.

The bride is the daughter of Carman Chase, Duncan, and the late Mrs. Chase. Groom's parents are the late Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Rosenthal. Mr. Chase gave his daughter in marriage.

Pink snapdragons and white stocks were at the altar. Rev. S. J. B. Parsons officiated.

TWO IN PINK

Mrs. D. Eng, matron of honor and bridesmaid, Miss Ernestine Henderson were gowned in pink floral sheaths that had overskirts of toning iridescent organza. Ensembles were complemented with rhinestone tiaras and cascade bouquets of blue delphiniums and white Shasta daisies.

Floyd Poulton and J. Angus acted as groomsmen, and ushers were Jim Attwood and Doug Ernst.

George Rose proposed the toast to the bride at a reception.

tion in the Boilermakers' Hall. A buffet supper was served, followed by dancing.

Red roses and white candles flanked the three-tier wedding cake, made by the bride, which centred the head table.

Leaving on a honeymoon trip up-island, the bride donned an emerald green suit, white accessories and yellow rosebud corsage.

Hear Vows

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Sneed came from Langley, B.C., to attend the wedding of Miss Edna Harvey and Mr. Henry Rosenthal in Centennial United Church. Other out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Webb of Vernon and Mr. and Mrs. John Handby of Nanaimo.

ONTARIO CRIME PROBE

'Interference'
By Ex-Minister

TORONTO (CP) — Former provincial mines minister Wednesday to appear at James A. Maloney was por the hearings before they ad-trayed before Ontario's royal joun Friday for the summer. commission on crime Wednes-day as dealing with gamblers and suppressing the administra-tion of justice.

H. Graham Walsh, retired Crown attorney for Renfrew County—the area Mr. Maloney represented in the legislature from 1956 until his death last year—said he was "appalled" at the interference by the for-mer cabinet minister.

The commission also heard from Insp. John Whitty of the provincial police that Mr. Ma-loney once threatened to have him transferred for prosecuting Renfrew truck drivers for over-loading.

Another member of the On-tario legislature, Ellis P. Morn-ingstar, was to appear before the commission today to ex-plain a letter over his name which supported a gambler for a job in Cogenwall.

Mr. Morningstar, Progressive Conservative legislature mem-

NAME CROPS UP

Mr. Maloney's name has cropped up frequently in com-mission hearings in connection with gambling bosses Joseph McDermott and Vincent Feeley. Investigators unearthed let-ters written by Mr. Maloney on behalf of the gamblers when they were trying to set up a small loans company.

Insp. Whitty said the minister wanted special pre-election fa-vors for pinball machine op-erators, as well as general im-munity for truckers and with-drawal of certain charges.

Commission counsel Roland F. Wilson asked Mr. Walsh: "Did Mr. Maloney ever inter-fere or attempt to interfere with you while you were Crown attorney?"

"Yes, he did," was the an-swer. Mr. Walsh said the minister, once a leading criminal lawyer, delayed one case of indecent as-sault for 18 months.

Kelowna Pushes For New College

(Compiled from CP)

KELOWNA—Plans for the formation of an Okanagan community college here to offer two years of arts and teacher-training were announced today by Arthur P. Dawe, a member of the mayor's higher education committee here.

Mrs. Dawe said a college society would be formed and would seek 1,000 members at $10 each to raise money for the purchase of land on which the college would be built.

Other Okanagan communities, notably Vernon, have similar committees working toward the same end.

The Kelowna group has been in touch with government and educational authorities at Victoria and at the University of British Columbia with respect to establishment of the college.

They basically criticize the fact that provincial tax monies are being used to develop higher education facilities at Vancouver and Victoria. Some of these taxes come from the Interior.

CONSTABLE DEMOTED

VANCOUVER—A battle appears shaping up at police headquarters over demotion of a constable who was allegedly found absent from his beat.

The unidentified constable, who has 13 years' service, was demoted from first to second class rank. "In pay it will cost him about $45 a month."

A spokesman for the Vancouver Policemen's Federal Union said Wednesday an appeal will be taken to the police commission soon.

HIGHWAY CLEARED

VANCOUVER—Highways Minister Gagliardi said Wednesday night that Highway 16, badly damaged in northern British Columbia by floodwaters, would be opened to normal traffic today.

Five rain-swollen creeks burst their banks and spilled onto the highway which links Prince George and Prince Rupert, damaging homes and a school.

Mr. Gagliardi said 400 feet of Canadian National Railways track had been washed away at Decker Lake. One home had been swept away but no one was hurt.

One home was damaged in Burns Lake by floodwaters and schools have been closed because of the rising water level. Saul's Creek, which runs into Burns Lake, spilled into the village's main street. Water a foot deep ran through the village.

Heavy rain was falling along the Hart Highway route and a bridge at Mile 170 was reported underwater.

ROAD CAVED IN

VANCOUVER—It may be four days before downtown Georgia Street traffic is normal after a large section of the road caved in Wednesday.

Earth fill below the paving around the hole had sunk. The crater caused a king-sized traffic jam, as buses became snarled in stationary traffic.

DOG CATCHER HIRED

KAMLOOPS—Alderman Malcolm Grant has announced the start of an all-out campaign to clear the streets of uncontrolled dogs. An additional dog catcher has been hired for the campaign.

ESCAPEES SOUGHT

CHILLIWACK—Police are continuing their search for two men who escaped early Tuesday from the Oakalla prison farm south of here. Police have identified the escapees as 34-year-old James Stewart and 47-year-old Harold John Yates. Both had been serving terms for breaking and entering.

SPRINKLING BANNED

VANCOUVER—Five Lower Mainland municipalities have imposed restrictions on garden sprinkling. Delta has slapped a total ban on sprinkling for the next several days while Surrey, North Vancouver, both city and district, and West Vancouver have restricted residents to sprinkling on alternate days.

$150,000 DAMAGE

TRAIL—Fire caused $150,000 damage when it swept through an auto accessory store here Tuesday.

Firemen believed the blaze at the downtown Firestone company store started outside the two-storey building where contractors were removing paint.

Two cars, a service truck, tires, bicycles, rifles and other merchandise were destroyed in the fire shortly before noon.

NOVARRO JAILED

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Actor Ramon Novarro was sentenced Tuesday to serve 15 days in jail and pay a $250 fine on a misdemeanor drunken driving conviction. Municipal court in suburban Van Nuys granted a 30-day stay of execution pending an appeal. Novarro, 63, was arrested Feb. 20 after his car collided with another.

NEW YORK—Feudin' and fussin' Rudy Vallee's blasting "Talent Scouts" Producer Irving Mansfield for hiring Jim Backus as summertime M.C.

"I like Jim—but what talent did he ever discover... as for Arthur Godfrey, what talent did he ever discover?" roared Rudy at Trader Vic's anniversary party the other a.m.

"But if you said, 'What talent did Rudy Vallee ever discover?' you could name countless..."

"Maybe," I said, "you wanted to do the show." Spoke up Johnny Carson: "That Rudy's such a master of innuendo!"

Gloria Vanderbilt's having one of her dark, gloomy phases and won't answer phone inquiries about reports that she and her husband, gifted director Sidney Lumet, have reached that Big and Sad Decision.

Is producer David Merrick really a heel? Lovely actress-singer-model Dodie Marshall auditioned on a very hot day for British star Anthony Newley—and Merrick. Newley's bringing his big London hit, "Stop the World, I Want to Get Off," here under Merrick's banner.

"They looked me in the eye afterward and said, 'Thank you very much,' meaning, 'We don't need you.'"

"I swore I wouldn't work for Merrick if he begged me." Next morning, casting director Michael Shurtleff phoned her that Merrick wanted her for a larger part in "Oliver," his other British import.

Though crushed not to work with Newley (whom 7 Arts is building into an international film star also), Dodie's sure Merrick must likewise be a fine man. "I really don't know him yet," she says. "You will, dear; you will."

EARL'S PEARLS: For some people, travel broadens the mind. For others, it just lengthens the conversation.

TEEN-AGE CANADA

Don't Downgrade The Bicycle

By JACK HUTTON

I have just bought a machine dreamed up more than 100 years ago by a Scottish blacksmith—and I think I now know why teen-agers find the twist so easy.

The machine, which cost all of $5, is a bicycle. For more than a week I've been spending at least 30 minutes a day on my creaking, smaller-than-ordinary-size "mechanic's delight," waving at teen-age friends who pass me.

I'd like to report that I've discovered muscles in my calves and the small of my back that I haven't used since I was 13. A blister formed on the inside of my right thumb and sitting down hasn't been easy.

But by gosh I feel good. As a 29-year-old reporter who decided at 17 that bicycle riding was part of a childhood past, I wonder what took so long to get back to it? Why in the world are more teen-agers driving to school when they could get this exercise?

Why, I wonder, don't more Canadian teen-agers make more use of the cheapest form of transportation that exists in Canada today?

Bad Taste? You'll soon hear a hit parade record which, in my opinion, should merit a medal for bad taste.

Jimmy Dean, who made his reputation with "Big Bad John," lost a lot of his following when he recorded "Dear Ivan," a record which seemed to rather thinly-veiled mushy propaganda. Then he capitalized on the story of President Kennedy with "P.T. 109..."

He has just released a song based on the 1958 bridge tragedy in Vancouver that took the lives of 18 men, an accident which invoked almost as much national sympathy as the Springfield mine disaster.

The song, entitled "Steel Men," has been described by an American publicity release as a "thumping, quick tempo description of a '58 bridge collapse" and "a captivating up beat coupler."

Dunbar Record Hot Cake

Victoria singer John Dunbar's album of Scottish music, on sale in Victoria for a couple of weeks now, has been selling briskly according to local record dealers.

Entitled Here's Tae Bonnie Scotland, the London release (ACL 7723) contains a dozen traditional highland songs—Bonnie Strathgryne, the March of the Cameron Men, among them.

Accompaniment is by local pianist Grace Timp. THE TOP TEN: 1. Palisades Park, Freddy Cannon; 2. Wollerton Mountain, Claude King; 3. Johnny Get Angry, Joanie Sommers; 4. Follow That Dream, Elvis Presley; 5. The Crowd, Roy Orbison; 6. Cindy's Birthday, Johnnie Crawford; 7. Three Stars Will Shine, Richard Chamberlain; 8. Summertime, The Jamies; 9. The Stripper, David Rose; 10. Dr. Kildare, Hank Levine.

This list is compiled according to sales of popular records in local record stores.)

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Shelly Holcomb, age 10, of Wichita, Kansas, for her question:

What Kind of Insect Is the Walkingstick?

This fellow is one of the actors of the insect world. His stage is a leafy branch and his role is an imitation of one of its twigs. He is so successful as an actor that we mistake him for a twig and he becomes invisible. Rarely does he go for a walk and never do we find him on the devil's walkingstick, the thorny shrub which grows in the sunny south.

We can look for the walkingstick among the leafy branches of the walnut and cherry, the oak and the desert locust trees. We can look, but we are not likely to see this long, spindly insect, even when our eyes fasten right on him. For he looks just like the twig on which he sits.

He may be three to six inches long and some of the walkingsticks of warmer countries are a foot long. His six long thin legs are all the same length and he sometimes carries the front pair over his head like a pair of antennae. You are not likely to catch him walking, for he spends most of his time chewing on the nearby leaves while he plays the role of a stodgy twig. But if you find a branch stripped bare of its leaves, you might just be lucky. Mr. Walkingstick, who did the damage, might be ready to find a new grocery store. He moves with a comical, sedate walk, much as you would expect a wooden twig to walk if it could move.

Most Careless of Mothers

Mrs. Walkingstick lays her eggs in the fall and she rates as a very careless mother, even in the insect world where parents as a rule do not give a whoop for their offspring. She drops her eggs, one here and one there, onto the fallen leaves which cover the ground. The eggs, falling like pattering raindrops, rest on the ground until spring.

Then they hatch into miniature copies of the parents they never know. The infants are green and they soon eat until they are so big that they have to shed their skins for larger ones. In a few weeks, the youngsters go through five or six of these molts. Then they are adults and they take upon themselves the color of the twigs they will imitate for the rest of their lives. The adults, like the youngsters, are wingless, though some of the walkingsticks of the tropics do have wings.

The walkingstick is a cousin of the cricket and the cockroach, the grasshopper and the katydid, the locust and the praying mantis. All these animals belong in the insect order Orthoptera, a word which means straight wings, though our walkingsticks have no wings at all.

One-Man Vaudeville Show

By AUDREY ST.D. JOHNSON

No one can say vaudeville is dead as long as its living diamond-studded impersonation can pack the Royal Theatre with obviously delighted patrons.

That, in a word, was Liberace as seen in Victoria, Wednesday night. A long one-man vaudeville act that mixed saccharin with straw-hat comedy and radiated smirks and sparkle-dust in all directions.

Personally I, admire Liberace, I would admire anyone who could turn nothing more than a digital facility, a gregarious grin and a taste for the garish into box office millions. And I envy his obvious delight in himself after 22 years in the business.

"Mr. Showmanship" worked hard to live up to his press-agency. He talked, he joked—the kind of easily assimilable jokes that bring instant belly-laughs—he lived it up at the piano with hands and feet, he sang and he soft-shoed about the stage.

CONSTANT SMILE

And he never, never stopped smiling.

He is the only piano player I have ever come across who could dip in "chopsticks" and come up with syrup. But on the other hand and to be fair, this number with which on his own admission, he wowed 'em at Carnegie Hall, was treated to some pretty hot licks along the way.

When it came to hot licks Liberace was assisted by a small combo of double bass and drums and a second piano.

With the help of this combo he was able to furnish up even Chopin climaxes until their glitter measured up to the diamante trim on his black and white evening dresses.

Liberace has the facility of making Chopin and Gershwin seem like evocations of his own personality. But I doubt if these two composers rested easily in their graves Wednesday night.

LIBERACE they loved him

'Silents', Music, Live Talent May Pay Off for Fox Theatre

By PHIL LEE

If organist Reg Stone and Fox theatre-owner Bert Nixon can work out the right combination of numbers their new policy of silent motion pictures with organ accompaniment plus live stage entertainment may well unlock the doors to goodly crowds and worthwhile dividends.

Monday night's preview of the new policy before a good house proved this.

One thing for sure — they had the right numbers.

First of all there was accomplished organist Stone in fine form showing off his newly rebuilt Kimball Theatre Unit Pipe Organ that turned him into a veritable one-man band — from glockenspiel and xylophone to singing birds,

PLEASEING VOCALISTS

Then there was delightful Anne Harris and her enchanting soprano offering "Smoke Gets In Your Eyes" and "One Night of Love."

Another worthwhile number was the promising Oak Bay quartet of high school students, two girls, Robbie and Frankie Scott, and the boys, Ken Smith and Bill Ritchie, under the direction of accompanist Lyle Henderson.

Nor can one forget violinist Geoff Venables and his haunting "Tea for Two."

Then there was a most engaging young man, Ron Berod, who, as emcee, proved himself an accomplished jack-of-all-trades, at one time playing the accordion, at another the piano and, at yet another, leading the audience in a sing-song that followed some old-time slides that were projected on the screen.

And, of course, there was that magnificent collection of excerpts from the silent films known as "The Days of Thrills and Laughter" that have been hailed by critics all over the world without restraint as being the mellowest, funniest harvest of nostalgia ever assembled under one title.

In spite of having the correct numbers at their disposal, however, Messrs. Stone and Nixon failed to assemble a pleasing combination.

First of all, the entire show for one of this nature — was entirely too long. Secondly, the weight was out of balance.

With a silent film of this character, without story, with a pot pourri of stars ranging from such immortals as Charlie Chaplin, Laurel and Hardy (before they became a team), Charlie Chase, Pearl White, Douglas Fairbanks, Sr., the hilarious Keystone Cops, Snub Pollard, and all the others of the golden days of motion pictures, surely it would not be difficult to project it in say three separate sections.

SUGGESTED FORMAT

If this could be done then the evening might open with Mr. Stone at the organ in various selections, then the first of the movie, a break for a local or visiting artist and perhaps a community sing. Then the second slice of the film could be shown followed by break for another entertainer on stage and/or a break for refreshments and the opportunity for patrons to stretch their legs. This would be followed by a final slice of silent film.

This way the program would be varied, have a welcome change of pace and be contained in two hours or at most, two hours and 15 minutes.

Should this or any other likely combination of numbers be worked out and catch on there is no reason that when the Fox Theatre opens July 2 with its month-long run of a new stage show plus the silent, "When Comedy Was King," that Victoria won't have a hit show on its hands.

Controversial Sabotage Bill Law In S.A.

PRETORIA (Reuters)—South Africa's controversial anti-sabotage bill became law Wednesday with its publication in the government gazette.

Under the law the government has broadened the definition of sabotage to include strikes and other activities not usually regarded as sabotage.

Penalties range from a minimum of five years' imprisonment to the death sentence.

Justice Minister Balthazar Vorster has said the bill is aimed against saboteurs and Communists.

The bill has been strongly opposed by churches, students, writers, trade unions, lawyers and other organizations in South Africa.

BANKS RAISE INTEREST ON SAVINGS AND LOANS

TORONTO (CP)—Chartered banks will increase both the interest paid on savings deposits and their prime lending rate within the next few days, it was reliably reported today in banking circles.

The savings rate will be increased from 2½ per cent to 3 per cent effective July 1, it is stated; and the prime rate will be increased from 5½ per cent to 6 per cent July 3. No change, however, will be made in the 5½ per cent rate applicable to loans under the Small Business Loans Act.

The prime lending rate is the lowest rate at which banks make loans on the best of security. At 6 per cent it will be as high as it can go under the terms of the Bank Act.

March of Giant Ants Eating Up Villages

CAIRO (Reuters)—The terrifying march of giant white ants continues to wreak havoc in lower Egypt, it was reported today.

At least 10 villages in a remote area of Beheira province in the lush Nile delta region must be abandoned due to the invasion of ants, it was learned.

Many of the ants almost an inch long and are of the vicious "soldier" type. About 25 villages in the area are infested with the ants. They dig huge colonies to a depth of six feet below the ground and come out at night in the millions to devastate buildings.

An agriculture ministry expert said today that in 10 of the villages infestation had reached the stage where nothing could be done but abandon them and have the people rebuild their homes elsewhere.

He said "millions and millions" of ants had established colonies under the villages and were eating all material containing cellulose—the organic structure contained in vegetable matter.

Stock Prices Up Sharply

Buying waves sent stock market prices up sharply in trading today on both the Toronto and New York stock markets.

Industrial index on Wall Street had soared 15.98 at noon, while on the Toronto board it showed a healthy 10.33 gain.

The college may buy time on the 13 radio stations to answer a broadcast by Mr. Lloyd just before noon. Previous radio and television time has been purchased.

On the radio broadcast today, and in a press conference just before, Mr. Lloyd criticized the doctors for not allowing a government suggestion that an independent observer appointed by each side or a court reporter attend closed sessions between the cabinet and the college's governing council last Friday, Saturday and Monday.

He said the government withdrew its suggestion when the college council threatened to walk out of the discussions.

Mr. Lloyd said different interpretations of what had happened at the meetings would not have occurred had observers of integrity been present.

The fact that the college refused, speaks for itself," he said.

Mr. Lloyd also said today he had received no official word from the college that it had rejected government proposals and would not stop its plan to provide only hospital-based education.

Churchill As He Left London for Holiday

'Winnie' Has Surgery After Fall in Hotel

MONTE CARLO, Monaco (Reuters)—Sir Winston Churchill fell and broke his thigh bone today and doctors carried out a "successful" operation on him.

The 87-year-old British elder statesman underwent surgery in the afternoon following a fall in his hotel room here.

Dr. Charles Chatelin, chief surgeon at Monte Carlo hospital, told reporters after doing the operation: "The operation was successful. It is possible now that Sir Winston can be sent to London tomorrow."

Churchill was taken to the hospital after he fell while getting out of bed in the luxury Hotel de Paris, where he had been staying since arriving from London Tuesday on a two-week visit.

He was visited in the hotel by Dr. Chatelin and Churchill's Monaco physician, Dr. David Roberts.

Then he was rushed to the hospital—the Princess Grace polyclinic—by ambulance and X-rayed.

An official medical bulletin said he suffered "a fracture of the neck of the femur"—the upper narrow part of his left thighbone.

In London, Lady Churchill announced Sir Winston would be flown home Friday.

Victoria is keenly disappointed at suspension of the Patricia Bay air terminal project but will bear without complaint its share of sacrifices needed to return the nation's economy to health, Mayor R. B. Wilson said today.

He said the city would not make a plea for special consideration, in view of the national financial crisis, but he hoped the terminal would be "one of the first projects" carried out when conditions improve sufficiently.

Cut-Back Talks Still Occupy PM

Times Ottawa Bureau
OTTAWA—Prime Minister John Diefenbaker went into another session with his cabinet today in a continuing cut-back review of spending estimates.

The pressures of the project apparently forced him to cancel a visit he had scheduled for today to Winnipeg.

He had been due to address the jubilee banquet of the Ukrainian Catholic hierarchy of Canada but at the last minute called it off. Justice Minister Davie Fulton was to speak in his place.

The explanation given by Diefenbaker's office was simply: "The prime minister is remaining in Ottawa on government business."

The cost-paring is aimed at reducing the anticipated $745,000,000 deficit for the current fiscal year by $250,000,000.

FLEMING-NAMED
The prime minister also announced Finance Minister Donald Fleming has been re-appointed "for the normal five-year term" to represent Canada on the boards of governors of the International Monetary Fund, from which Canada had borrowed $300 million to help cope with the dollar crisis, and the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development.

The Fleming announcement was taken by some observers here to mean that the finance minister would be staying in his post, despite speculation to the contrary.

As the prime minister entered today's cabinet meeting he was asked by reporters for details of the budget-chopping.

"I'm not going to deal with individual projects," he said. "All the projects are being taken up."

Asked if the national sports council, operating on an annual $5 million budget, would be affected, he replied: "The sports council has been regularly constituted and is operating. I don't think I have anything further to add."

NDP URGES DOUGLAS TO TRY SEAT

TORONTO (CP)—The national executive of the New Democratic Party voted unanimously today to recommend that party leader T. C. Douglas contest a byelection in Burnaby-Coquitlam "as soon as it is clear that an early byelection will be called," party president Michael Oliver of Montreal said today.

Mr. Douglas said earlier in telephone interview from his Saskatchewan summer home that a decision to contest the seat would depend on when a byelection is held.

Socreds Don't Want Vote Now

QUEBEC (CP)—Social Credit leader Robert Thompson said today that if a non-confidence vote comes up in Parliament on Prime Minister Diefenbaker's austerity program Social Credit would have to vote against the minority government.

But Mr. Thompson told a press conference he doesn't think the Social Credit party will be put in a position where it would hold the balance of power in such a vote.

He stressed that his party does not want an election this year and said also the Liberals are not ready for an election.

"We don't want an election this year because we want time to want to win the next election," he said. "But if we are forced to go to the people we will."

Both Mr. Thompson and deputy leader Real Caouette said they disagreed with the prime minister's measure to check the financial crisis.

"We don't want a tight-money program," said Mr. Caouette. "It is going to kill our economy, but in the situation as it is Diefenbaker has no choice."

"He had to do it," Diefenbaker was dishonest. He deceived the Canadian people because he told them something wasn't true that was true. He delayed this action until after the election."

Capture Made In Hotel Room

(Times News Services)
TEL AVIV—Convicted Soviet spy Dr. Robert A. Soblen, wanted by U.S. authorities to begin serving a life sentence, was arrested here Wednesday night and charged with illegally entering Israel.

A ministry of information communique said Soblen was arrested at 11 p.m. in his hotel room because he entered the country Tuesday on a Canadian passport in the name of his late brother, Beras Soblen.

The 62-year-old Lithuanian-born Soblen was scheduled to surrender to a federal court in New York today to start serving a life sentence for spying in the United States for Russia during wartime. He had been free on $100,000 bail.

Soblen was asleep when plainclothes police entered his room to take him into custody.

The ex-psychiatrist, who suffers from lymphatic leukemia—a form of blood cancer—complained "I do not feel well" when he was arrested. He offered no resistance.

While Israel and the United States do not have an extradition agreement, Soblen faces expulsion on the charge of illegal entry.

(In New York, Attorney Robert M. Morgenthau of the U.S. justice department, said "every effort" will be made to have Soblen returned to the United States.)

Soblen flew here Tuesday night from New York by Air France via Paris. He escaped detection for nearly 24 hours.

He arrived alone at Lydd Airport, carrying a suitcase and a briefcase, and took a taxicab to the small Savoy Hotel overlooking the Mediterranean.

Asked for his passport by the hotel clerk, Soblen said he had lost it. He said he remembered the passport number and gave it as "10385," then registered under the name of Beras Soblen and gave his age as 72.

The hotel rented him Room 14 on the first floor overlooking the beach.

Soblen was convicted about a year ago of giving national secrets to Russia. He had been free on bail pending an appeal to the supreme court.

The court refused the review early this week.

After checking into the hotel, Soblen went to bed and slept until noon Wednesday. He ate a light meal in the hotel dining room and then made several phone calls, including one to an unknown person in Haifa and another to local attorney Ari Ankorian.

Phone Calls Aroused Suspicions

The lack of a passport and the telephone calls aroused the suspicions of the hotel staff and police were notified.

Soblen left the hotel in shorts and shirt to wander about the city. He returned about 3:30 p.m.

A short time later he complained about the lack of air conditioning in the high 80-degree heat and asked for another room. He also asked for an English newspaper which contained a New York dispatch on his escape. He was given both.

Soblen was asleep when police knocked on his door. He told them he had lost his passport. The room was searched and some documents found.

Soblen was convicted July 16, 1961, in a New York federal court of spying for Russia over a 20-year period.

The U.S. Court of Appeals affirmed the conviction March 13. Last Monday the U.S. Supreme Court refused to review his case. Soblen's wife said he disappeared a few hours later.

Soblen could have been sentenced to death. Federal Judge William Herlands spared him the electric chair because Soblen's disease was expected to kill him by this summer.

ON RHODESIA

U.K. Rejects Proposal Before UN

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—Britain today rejected any United Nations intervention in the affairs of Southern Rhodesia and announced it would not take part in a general assembly vote on a resolution demanding constitutional changes there.

Sir Patrick Dean, summing up for Britain after nearly three weeks of debate, expressed unqualified opposition to the resolution sponsored by 38 African and Asian countries and backed solidly by the Soviet bloc. Sponsors of the measure predicted beforehand they would receive at least 65 votes, more than the necessary two-thirds majority needed.

The resolution seeks to have Britain repeal the December, 1961, constitution, branded by its foes as designed to perpetuate white rule. It seeks a constitutional convention in which Negro political leaders would wield power equal to that of white.

Dean contended the assembly had no authority to intervene in affairs of a self-governing territory, that Britain cannot force Southern Rhodesia to repeal the constitution, and that his government had "gone more than halfway to co-operate with the United Nations in dealing with this question and with the whole range of questions affecting dependent territories for which the United Kingdom still has responsibilities."

But air companies flying to Britain reported that all flights to London for the next few days were solidly booked. The only hope for most was a last-minute cancellation.

Centennial Flashback . . .

JUNE 28
The complaint of Mr. Jacob Francis, the colored man who was refused a drink in the Bank Exchange Saloon (see June 26), was brought forward in police court, and adjourned to a later date, the magistrate stressing that the court desired to find out whether parties who insulted British subjects in the manner of which Francis complains should in future be allowed licenses.

The House of Assembly met and discussed a letter from the chief engineer and the secretary of the fire department, asking for a new engine for the "Tiger" company, and a further appropriation of $600 for the purchase of hose.

The house also received, from the surveyor-general, an estimate of the cost of a road, six feet wide, from Victoria to Kowmoos District. Figure was set at $5,000. No action was taken.

... HERE AND THERE

With NORMAN CRIBBENS.

A cheery white-haired little man, W. H. Turner, is thinking of pulling up his roots at Kingston-on-Thames, England, and moving to Victoria—at 70!

Visiting here after an absence of 35 years, he said: "England is getting too crowded for comfort. Victoria is just right—not too small and quite cosmopolitan. In many ways it's like the England I knew 50 years ago."

A retired advertising man, Mr. Turner says standards in London have deteriorated over the past decade.

"We used to have first-rate artists and writers and they achieved subtle effect by understatement and caricature. Now much of our advertising is blatant and vulgar."

Not every one agrees with Rev. Dr. A. C. Bouquet that Victoria University should be a "centre of creative thought," not just a glorified technical school.

"I am tired of English people coming over here and telling us we should model our institutions on Oxford and Cambridge," writes R. D. Brooke, Esquimalt. "I see nothing wrong in teaching practical subjects at university."

"There is no stigma in being a plumber or a brick-layer—except perhaps in jolly old England."

Thirty residents of Long Beach, California, have booked seats for next Monday's opening night of the Jerry Gosley Smile Show at Langham Court Theatre.

And 81 more Long Beachers have booked for the night of Aug. 17.

It seems there is a sudden demand for language records in the phonograph section of Victoria Public Library.

"We have none at present," one of the staff said.

Surprisingly, light music is not the most in demand. Borrowers are clamoring for serious string and piano music and symphony.

Records of Shakespeare's plays and poetry readings are also popular.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

A meeting of the Prayer for Israel Group will be held on Monday in the prayer room of the Central Baptist Church at 7.45 p.m.

The Victoria Horticultural Society will meet on Tuesday in the City Hall at 7.30 p.m. Miss Doris Page will talk on conifers, their use in the garden, types for certain localities, and methods of propagation.

When members of the group have completed their individual studies of the reports, a formal meeting of the sub-committee, headed by Richard J. Bower, will begin the job of drawing up recommendations to be presented to the full chamber.

Centennial Midsummer Night Dance of the Scandinavian Brotherhood will be held Saturday at 8.30 at the Brentwood Community Hall. There will be entertainment and refreshments.

Winners of the tournament conducted by the Victoria Duplicate Bridge Club were: Bill Simpson-Baile, Douglas Tuck, Joan Smith and Harry Brown.

Two reports on amalgamation of Greater Victoria municipalities are being studied by a special committee—the 1956 report by the Citizens' Research Institute and the Deutsch report of 1958.

Gladys Soulsby, past president of the Natural History Society, will guide a tour through Beacon Hill Park Sunday afternoon after the band concert, and every Sunday afternoon following during the summer.

Tour will take about half an hour, and will start at approximately 4.30.

Former mayor Percy Scurrell Friday will be presented with mementoes from the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities of which he was president for part of last year until leaving civic politics.

The presentation will be made by Mayor R. B. Wilson, who received the gifts on Mr. Scurrell's behalf at a recent CFMM convention in Winnipeg.

The B.C. government today received 300 bids for oil and natural gas rights on 87 parcels of crown land in the north.

Exploration and drilling rights are up for auction at Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan's office.

Results of the sale were to be announced this afternoon.

"It looks like a very good sale," said Mr. Kiernan this morning.

Coroner Thomas Hadfield of Parksville, has postponed an inquiry into the drowning Tuesday near Northwest Bay of Richard Young, 22, of Victoria.

The young man, an employee of T. Eaton Co., was sailing with a friend, Gordon Knox, when their Lightning capsized.

Mr. Young had attempted to swim to shore, but failed. His body was picked up later by the crew of a tugboat.

Police said the inquiry will be held when all information required by the coroner is in hand.

The funeral will be held at McCall's Friday at 3.30 p.m. Interment will be at Royal Oak.

MAYBE THEIR ONLY CHANCE IN 'DOG'S LIFE'

'Just Mutts' Get Class in Show

All mutts, regardless of pedigree or breeding, will have perhaps the only chance in their lives to take part in a real dog show at the official opening of Kinsmen Gorge Park on Saturday.

The park, which has been in use since the start of good weather at the end of May, will be opened officially with three days of special functions, Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

PRIZES GALORE

The off-beat dog show, which begins at 10 a.m. the first day, will give prizes for the one with the longest ears, the one with the shortest tail, the largest, the smallest, the best dressed, and the grand champion of the show. It is sponsored by Dr. Ballard's Pet Foods.

Other events on Saturday include a treasure hunt for children under 13 for $100 in prizes at 1.30 p.m.; an exhibition by Victoria Junior Club at 2.30, and pony rides for children, and hamburgers and corn-on-the-cob all day.

On Sunday there will be a water skiing exhibition by Victoria Ski Club at 2.30, and a concert by Victoria Boys' Band at 2.30.

Monday's events will include a square dance exhibition and band concert at 2 p.m.

MANY FACILITIES

The park, which was started in 1956, is maintained by Esquimalt Municipality and sponsored by Victoria Kinsmen. It contains picnic areas and play facilities for children, including salt water swimming pools which have just been reconstructed.

At present under construction to be ready in July are the Japanese Tea Gardens. The park will stay open until the end of September, weather permitting.

LOCAL TORY MPs DIFFER ON AUSTERITY

Two local Conservative members of Parliament expressed conflicting views today on the value of Prime Minister Diefenbaker's new austerity program.

Victoria MP A. DeB. McPhillips said some of the new moves should be permanent.

Esquimalt-Saanich MP George Chatterton said he hopes they will be temporary only.

Mr. McPhillips also predicted local works projects under review will not all be scrapped. He said he is in favor of a permanent cure on the value of goods Canadian visitors to the U.S. may buy.

LUXURY CARS HIT

Mr. McPhillips said he is also in favor of tariff curbs on imported automobiles.

"They have been reaping a harvest for years," he said.

Now that import prices have been forced up, he said he hopes Canadian manufacturers will produce compact cars in mass quantities at lower prices.

Mr. McPhillips said he does not approve of "the habit of Canadians—particularly young people—of buying luxury goods in the U.S."

Mr. Chatterton said he does not think the austerity measures will be harmful to Canada's economy—at home or abroad—on a short term basis.

HOPES FOR EARLY END

"I certainly hope the present measures will be maintained only for the length of time considered necessary. I would hope this period will be only a temporary one."

"All western nations should aim at a gradual reduction in trade barriers. I don't think the present international situation will affect the internal economy although over a long period it would."

Mr. McPhillips pooh-poohed reports that local works projects will be scrapped in the big austerity drive.

Because they are under review by the treasury board doesn't mean they will be thrown out, he said.

"They are looking at things always—half a dozen times before a project gets the green light."

FRIGATE DELAY

Mr. McPhillips said work on three of eight new $40,000,000 frigates promised for the coast next year "could be delayed."

But contract for two new weather ships are still expected "any day."

A marine service station for Victoria's harbor "is certainly not going to be scrapped—we have got to have it," he said.

It would be essential to service new ships which will be based here—including two new Coast Guard cutters and a fisheries patrol vessel.

Petersen Fears For $5 Million Fitness Program

Education Minister Leslie Peterson said today he fears Ottawa's new austerity drive will kill a national $5,000,000 physical fitness program.

The B.C. government expected to get $240,000 of the $5,000,000 under a new federal-provincial agreement.

"We fear since the agreement hasn't been signed that we may lose it," said Mr. Peterson.

He said he has written several times to Health Minister J. Walter Monteleith asking for details on the proposed agreement for spending the grant.

"I would be very disappointed if this grant does not come through," he said.

"We have already employed some staff and an advisory committee is making a survey to see how the money can best be spent."

Father 'Little Use' To Family

A father of 11 was sentenced to a total of 35 days in jail by Magistrate William Ostler today for falsifying unemployment insurance claims.

Gordon V. Eaton, enforcement officer for the Unemployment Insurance Commission, told the court last week that Wilfred Hollinger, 2843 Leigh Road, on five occasions between Jan. 15 and Feb. 5, this year, failed to declare his earnings on insurance claims.

As a result he received $150 in benefits, $61 more than he was entitled to if he had declared all his earnings.

"You have been dependent on welfare agencies for many years—you seem to work when you feel like work," the magistrate told Hollinger today.

"You really aren't much use to your family at all—the public has been supporting your family. You are biting the hand that feeds you," he said.

Island Man Accidentally Shoots Self

Vincent Alek, a 25-year-old Indian fisherman, suffered a shoulder wound in a shooting accident Wednesday evening on Koksilah Indian Reserve, near Duncan.

He was rushed to King's Daughters' Hospital in Duncan. Hospital officials said today his condition was satisfactory.

According to reports Mrs. Gloria George, Mission Road, Koksilah, Alek's sister-in-law, called RCMP. Apparently Alek had taken a .22 rifle to a nearby creek. He told police he was about to clean it when it fired.

The small-calibre bullet entered his shoulder a few inches above his heart.

Last Tribute Paid City's Mr. Theatre

Theatre managers, Freemasons and Rotarians from Vancouver and Victoria were among the more than 200 people attending a funeral service in Haywards' Chapel today for Clifford Denham, 83, manager of the Royal Theatre since it opened here in 1913.

Mr. Denham had so many friends that every seat in the cream-walled, flower-banked chapel was taken—a number came from the mainland to attend.

At the request of his family, Psalm 23 "The Lord Is My Shepherd" was sung during the service, which was followed by interment at Royal Oak cemetery.

Among the mourners were members of St. Andrew's Lodge No. 45, AF and AM, Victoria Rotary Club and the Silver Threads organization here.

Honorary pallbearers were George I. Warren (former chief of Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau), Dr. Frank M. Bryant, Maynard J. Johnson, Alex Straith, S. Evans and J. Gow.

The active pallbearers were Martin Cave, Alec Reid, W. More, J. Armstrong, Frank Skillings and T. Woolaston.

FRIDAY MEETINGS

COURT ACTION THREATENED

'Good Deed' Sours For City Fathers

'Hut Bylaw' For Bowlers Said Illegal

City council today was warned it may face court action if it doesn't act within a week to remove an old army hut from the posh downtown tourist zone.

Alan Cox, lawyer for Crystal Court Motel on Belleville, said a June 14 building bylaw amendment permitting the hut appeared "clearly illegal" and might result in a court action to quash it.

The attack centred on a wooden hut which the city is helping erect behind the Crystal garden to assist the Canadian Pacific Lawn Bowling Association. The association recently was turned out of its club rooms in the Crystal Garden by the CPR.

PAYING HALF

City council agreed to pay half—up to $1,500 for establishing the building on city property to provide the organization with a clubhouse beside the bowling greens.

The structure violated the city's own building bylaw which required a masonry building in No. 1 fire limits until June 14 when the city passed an amendment exempting "clubhouses, pavilions, tool sheds and like structures" on certain city property.

Mr. Cox said no matter what was done to dress up the "dilapidated" army hut, it would be blot on the area and harm property values of substantial taxpayers who were forced to live up to rigid building standards set by the city.

He said the June 14 amendment, "which attempts to justify this action... at first glance appears to be clearly illegal."

QUASH BYLAW

"We expect that if something is not done to remove this structure at once, our client will give us instructions to apply to quash the bylaw."

Mr. Cox said the frame building could not be justified in a high class area, except on purely compassionate grounds.

"We think it would be a shame if it were necessary for a substantial taxpayer to incur the expense of taking the city to court to make it live up to the spirit of its own regulations."

"We would appreciate some indication within the next week of council's decision, as it will be necessary for us to commence proceedings by the end of next week."

Burglar Praised But Sent to Jail

A man who broke into the Glenish Hotel last week and then almost immediately reported it to police, was today sentenced to a year in prison.

"Your concern over your victim was commendable," Magistrate Ostler said today, "but it isn't the first time you have done this."

"It's a sad thing that you have spent most of your life as an alcoholic. It would be mistaken leniency to give you a light sentence—there must be a sufficient period for you to come under prison discipline and other good influences," he said.

OMISSION DENIED

Air Force Included In 'Victoria Story'

Victoria Centennial Celebration Society today denied an earlier report that the air force is to be left out of the Victoria Story pageant to be staged in Athletic Park July 28 to Aug. 4.

Dudley Remus, script writer and director of the pageant, said that even as the story appeared in another paper that Victoria's air force history was to be omitted, he and other committee members were conducting research into the role of all three armed services.

He denied that any member of the society had said "Victoria doesn't seem to have had any air force in its past."

GOERING HIS VICTIM

Publisher Gray Campbell, an ex-RCAF man himself, is working through the Air Force Officers' Association of Vancouver Island for material for the pageant.

Not only is Mr. Remus acquainted with the more well-known RCAF and RAF fliers which the city has produced, but he has even "discovered" that the man who shot down future Nazi leader Hermann Goering in 1917 lives right here in Victoria.

Not many natives of the city know that Emmerson Smith, 2050 MacNeil, manager of McQuade's Ship Chandlery, shot down the then ex-German pilot, was himself shot down by the leading First World War ace Baron Manfred von Richthofen, and later was interrogated by an enraged Goering himself.

It is intended to incorporate battle scenes from both world wars in the pageant. Rehearsals are being held at 7.30 in Victoria High School all this week, with final indoor rehearsal to be at 1.30 p.m. Saturday.

Summertime Gospel Services For Beacon Hill

Nineteenth annual program of summertime gospel services in Beacon Hill Park's Cameron Bandshell will begin this Sunday.

A total of nine Sunday services, all beginning at 7 p.m., will be sponsored by the Victoria branch of the International Christian Businessmen's Committee.

ASK The TIMES

Q. Could you please tell me which tide table should be used for the Chatham Island/Discovery Island area off Ten Mile Point? F.K.W.

A. Marine authorities say the Victoria Harbor tide table is closest reference for Ten Mile Point, as there is no special table for the area there should be no more than 10 or 15 minutes difference.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published weekly.

All questions should be self-contained and not dependent on other material in the paper. No attempt will be made to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

Margaret Todd In Golf Final

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mrs. Margaret Todd of Victoria and Gayle Hitchens of Vancouver won berths today in Friday's final of the B.C. Close golf championship.

Mrs. Todd defeated fellow Victorian Mrs. Shirley Naysmith 2 and 1 while Miss Hitchens beat out defending champion Janet McWha of Vancouver on the 19th.

Floods Threaten Northern B. C. Town

PRINCE GEORGE (CP)—Flood waters which have cut the CNR line and the northern trans-provincial highway were reported Wednesday to be threatening the community of Houston, 175 miles west of here.

Water that spilled over the banks of the Buck River was reported to have reached a number of houses in the community. It was also posing new threats to CNR and highway bridges spanning the river to the west of the community. (See earlier Page 27.)

Cuba Arrests 5 Men In Killing

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—Five men have been arrested on charges of killing a Castro militiaman and wounding another seriously, Havana Radio reported today.

Twins Offer Loan to Aid Mounties

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Minnesota Twins have offered a $20,000 loan to the near-bankrupt Vancouver Mounties of the Pacific Coast Baseball League but Mounties have had to decline the offer, the Sun says.

Baseball writer Bruce Larsen said the development came Wednesday as the financial crisis of the sagging Mounties moved to an acute stage.

450 Homeless In Big Quebec Blaze

QUEBEC CITY (UPI)—Some 250 firemen tonight brought under control a general alarm fire which engulfed three blocks of business-residential St. Valler Street in the city's Lower Town district and rendered some 450 persons homeless.

Two or three firemen were reported cut by broken glass as the roaring conflagration destroyed and gutted at least 12 buildings, many of them tenements.

Police estimate the damage at $1 million.

Bandits Get $78 In Raid on Grocery

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two well-dressed bandits, one flashing a gun, raided a South Vancouver grocery store today, took $78 and some cigarettes and fled before police arrived.

March of Giant Ants
Eating Up Villages

CAIRO (Reuters)—The terrifying march of giant white ants continues to wreak havoc in lower Egypt, it was reported today.

At least 10 villages in a remote area of Beheira province in the lush Nile delta region must be abandoned due to the invasion of ants, it was learned.

Many of the ants almost an inch long and are of the vicious "soldier" type. About 25 villages in the area are infested with the ants. They dig huge colonies to a depth of six feet below the ground and come out at night in the millions to devastate buildings.

An agriculture ministry expert said today that in 10 of the villages infestation had reached the stage where nothing could be done but abandon them and have the people rebuild their homes elsewhere.

He said "millions and millions of ants had established colonies under the villages and were eating all material containing cellulose—the organic structure contained in vegetable matter."

Pupils
Let Loose

Local schools today disgorged 23,432 pupils for the last time in this school year.

All pupils of elementary and secondary schools in School District 61 finished their year's work at regular dismissal time this afternoon. Those who still had exams to write today were kept a little longer.

Only teachers will attend school on Friday morning, a spokesman for the school board said today.

Medicare
Fight Wages On

REGINA (CP)—Opposing sides in Saskatchewan's bitter, down-to-the-wire medical care controversy are using the airwaves in an attempt to gain public support of their stand on the issue.

Premier Woodrow Lloyd, defending his government's medical care insurance plan that goes into operation Sunday, has made two radio broadcasts and two television appeals this week on Saskatchewan's 13 English-speaking radio stations and seven television stations.

Dr. H. D. Dalglish of Saskatoon, president of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, which says it will not work under the medical plan, has made one telecast and one radio broadcast on the same province-wide basis.

The college may buy time on the 13 radio stations to answer a broadcast by Mr. Lloyd just before noon. Previous radio and television time has been purchased.

On the radio broadcast today, and in a press conference just before, Mr. Lloyd criticized the doctors for not allowing a government suggestion that an independent observer appointed by each side or a court reporter attend closed sessions between the cabinet and the college's governing council last Friday, Saturday and Monday.

SUGGESTION WITHDRAWN
He said the government withdrew its suggestion when the college council threatened to walk out of the discussions.

Mr. Lloyd said different interpretations of what had happened at the meetings would not have occurred had observers of integrity been present.

"The fact that the college refused, speaks for itself," he said.

Mr. Lloyd also said today he had received no official word from the college that it had rejected government proposals and would not stop its plan to provide only hospital-based care.

Churchill As He Left London for Holiday

'Winnie' Has Surgery
After Fall in Hotel

MONTE CARLO, Monaco (Reuters)—Sir Winston Churchill fell and broke his thigh bone today and doctors carried out a "successful" operation on him.

The 87-year-old British elder statesman underwent surgery in the afternoon following a fall in his hotel room here.

Dr. Charles Chatelin, chief surgeon at Monte Carlo hospital, told reporters after doing the operation: "The operation was successful. It is possible now that Sir Winston can be sent to London tomorrow."

Churchill was taken to the hospital after he fell while getting out of bed in the luxury Hotel de Paris, where he had been staying since arriving from London Tuesday on a two-week visit.

He was visited in the hotel by Dr. Chatelin and Churchill's Moroccan physician, Dr. David Roberts.

Then he was rushed to the hospital—the Princess Grace polyclinic—by ambulance and X-rayed.

An official medical bulletin said he suffered "a fracture of the neck of the femur"—the upper narrow part of his left thighbone.

In London, Lady Churchill announced Sir Winston would be flown home Friday.

Huge Project
Under Review

By ALEX YOUNG

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Defence department officials today said the navy's $270 million frigate-building program, scheduled to start next year, is "still in the works."

They admitted, however, that the project is being reviewed in the light of Prime Minister Diefenbaker's announced intention to cut government spending by $250 million in a full fiscal year.

"Design work is proceeding but we can't say exactly when it will be completed or when tenders will be called," a spokesman said.

Eight general purpose frigates, the government announced on April 11, would be built between 1963 and 1968 at an estimated cost of $35 million each.

They would be built in Canadian shipyards. (Two were scheduled to be built in Victoria yards.)

In addition the government plans to obtain three Oberon class submarines from Britain, at an estimated cost of $10 million.

Defence Minister Douglas Harkness today said Canada and the United Kingdom still have not concluded any swap arrangement, whereby the U.K. would buy Canadian frigates in return for Canada's purchase of the submarines, a condition the government attached to the sub purchases.

The first frigate was to have been put under construction in 1963, with the first four being completed by 1967 and the balance in 1968.

FLED U.S.

Convicted Spy
Caught in Israel

(Times News Services)

TEL AVIV—Convicted Soviet spy Dr. Robert A. Soblen, wanted by U.S. authorities to begin serving a life sentence, was arrested here Wednesday night and charged with illegally entering Israel.

A ministry of information spokesman said Soblen was arrested at 11 p.m. in his hotel room because he entered the country Tuesday on a Canadian passport in the name of his late brother, Beras Soblen.

The 62-year-old Lithuanian-born Soblen was scheduled to surrender to a federal court in New York today to start serving a life sentence for spying in the United States for Russia during wartime. He had been free on $100,000 bail.

Soblen was asleep when plainclothes police entered his room to take him into custody. The ex-psychiatrist, who suffers from lymphatic leukemia—a form of blood cancer—complained "I do not feel well" when he was arrested. He offered no resistance.

FACES EXPULSION
While Israel and the United States do not have an extradition agreement, Soblen faces expulsion on the charge of illegal entry.

(In New York, Attorney Robert M. Morgenthau of the U.S. justice department, said "every effort" will be made to have Soblen returned to the United States.)

Soblen flew here Tuesday night from New York by Air France via Paris. He escaped detection for nearly 24 hours.

He arrived alone at Lydda Airport, carrying a suitcase and a briefcase, and took a taxicab to the small Savoy Hotel overlooking the Mediterranean.

Asked for his passport by the hotel clerk, Soblen said he had lost it. He said he remembered the passport number and gave it as "10385."

Then registered under the name of Beras Soblen and gave his age as 72.

(Beras Soblen is reported to have committed suicide in Montreal five years ago. The family use different spellings for their name.) The hotel rented him Room 14 on the first floor overlooking the beach.

Soblen was convicted about a year ago of giving national secrets to Russia. He had been free on bail pending an appeal.

Socreds
Don't Want Vote Now

QUEBEC (CP)—Social Credit leader Robert Thompson said today that if a non-confidence vote comes up in Parliament on Prime Minister Diefenbaker's austerity program Social Credit would have to vote against the minority government.

But Mr. Thompson told a press conference he doesn't think the Social Credit party will be put in a position where it would hold the balance of power in such a vote.

He stressed that his party does not want an election this year and said also the Liberals are not ready for an election.

"We don't want an election this year because we want time to win the next election," he said. "But if we are forced to go to the people we will."

Both Mr. Thompson and deputy leader Real Caouette said they disagreed with the prime minister's measure to check the financial crisis.

"We don't want a tight-money program," said Mr. Thompson. "It is going to kill our economy, but in the situation as it is Diefenbaker had no choice."

"He had to do it. Diefenbaker was dishonest. He deceived the Canadian people because he told them something wasn't true that was true. He delayed this action until after the election."

BERTON ON THE TRAIL

Where the Paving Ends
The Wilderness Begins

(Toronto columnist Pierre Berton is revisiting his old home, the Yukon. Third in a series.)

TOAD RIVER (delayed)—We have driven these past two days for 437 miles through some of the most spectacular scenery in the world and we are camped tonight in the heart of the Northern Rockies on the banks of a milk white stream. We have crossed Pierre Berton the Continental Divide by way of canyon and pass, and along the dizzy lips of precipice and cliff—and there is no effective way of describing it. The children, who tend to be blasé about scenery, have been hypnotized by the sight of so much naked rock and driven snow by valleys 20 miles across, by waterfalls a mile above them, by gorges chopped through granite walls as if by giant meat cleavers and by rivers so majestic that they can never again speak of their own. Humber as anything but a babbling brook.

My wife has just remarked that she was not prepared for what we have seen so far. She thought the Alaska Highway might be rather drab: "I expected grandeur—but I did not think to see so much color," she says.

Vivid With Color

By that she means the wild charivari of the hillside foliage, the purple slabs of the mountains reflected in the mint-green lakes, the white ness of the snow against the frost blue sky and the brilliant drifts of bluebells tinting the forest floor.

She has also been pleasantly reassured by the condition of the highway itself. It is wider and better surfaced than she expected. The first hundred miles are now paved and the next hundred as good as paved since the crushed sandstone used there packs hard as cement.

The remainder of the gravel road is rather like the concession roads in our own Vaughan Township but easier to drive because of its better condition. There is road equipment everywhere repairing and renewing the highway—replacing culverts ripped out by flash floods, laying new gravel beds torn up by frost boils, straightening bad curves and forever grading and widening.

Each curve, bump and dangerous hill is clearly marked. There are lookout points for

Indians Rush To Beat U.K. Ban

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — A brisk-black market trade in air fares to Britain was underway here today as hundreds of Indians clamored to leave before a new restrictive British immigration bill becomes law on Sunday.

Plane tickets to Britain were sold "under the counter" by travel agents at double the official price and some would-be immigrants kept a round-the-clock vigil at travel agencies, airline companies and, at airports hoping to pick up a passage.

Britain's new Immigration Act, restricting Commonwealth immigration for the first time, was aimed at cutting the flow of migrants but has been widely criticized as being discriminatory on racial lines.

Critics have said the Act's provisions are designed to cut immigration from the West Indies, India and Pakistan. Until the Act goes into effect Sunday there is virtually free entry for Commonwealth citizens.

Many of the Indian would-be immigrants were seeking jobs in Britain or were relatives of people already there.

But air companies flying to Britain reported that all flights to London for the next few days were solidly booked. The only hope for most was a last-minute cancellation.
